MEDIA GUIDELINES AND POLICIES

MEDIA CREDENTIALS: All requests should be submitted to the Lakers Public Relations Department at least 24 hours prior to the game you wish to cover (fax: 310-419-3235). Please make certain all credential requests are confirmed by the PR Department prior to arriving at the arena. NO CREDENTIAL REQUESTS WILL BE HONORED ON GAME DAY. Credentials may be picked up inside the Forum Club lobby entrance on the west side of the arena beginning two hours prior to game time. Credentials must be visibly worn at all times and are non-transferable.

MEDIA PARKING: Members of the media who are granted credentials will also be included on one of two parking lists — either the Great Western Forum lot or the Hollywood Park lot. To avoid conflicts, please verify your location when receiving credential confirmation. Media entrance to the GW Forum lot is located on the south side of the arena (90th Street) next to the tunnel entrance. Media entrance to the Hollywood Park lot is located on the southeast side of the arena (Kareem Court & 90th Street).

PRESS ROOM: The press room is located in the northeast corner of the arena (ground level) and is open three hours prior to game time. Telephones, media guides, game notes, statistics, NBA News and quotes are available in this area. Should you need any additional assistance or service, please do not hesitate to ask John Black, Raymond Ridder or any member of the Lakers Public Relations staff.

PRE AND POST-GAME INTERVIEWS: In accordance with NBA policy, both the Lakers and visiting locker rooms will be open to members of the media up to 45 minutes prior to game time (6:45 p.m. for a 7:30 p.m. game) and 10 minutes following the conclusion of the game. Players and coaches are available for interviews at those times. Only working members of the media with valid credentials will be admitted to the locker rooms. ABSOLUTELY NO AUTOGRAPHS ALLOWED DURING MEDIA ACCESS PERIOD.

GAME NOTES AND STATISTICS: Game notes, rosters, etc. are available in the press work room three hours prior to game time. Statistics are distributed to the working media following each quarter. Post-game quotes and notes are distributed as quickly as possible following the game.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Limited space is available for still photographers along each baseline, with exact locations to be determined on game day. ABSOLUTELY NO TRIPODS ALLOWED. Photographers must stay in their designated areas, and are asked to be considerate of print media and fans directly in their viewing area.

MEALS: A pre-game meal is served in the press room (northeast corner, ground level) beginning 1 1/2 hours prior to game time. Beverages and snacks are also available in the press room during and following the game.

PRACTICE POLICY: Practice sessions are open to the media (closed to the public). In general, the Lakers will conduct practice at the GW Forum or Loyola Marymount University. Players and coaches will be available for brief interviews immediately following each practice. Please contact the Lakers Public Relations Department to confirm practice times, sites and the availability of players and coaches. Interviews which will last longer than five minutes in duration should be scheduled in advance through the Lakers Public Relations Department.

JERRY BUSS

OWNER

Jerry Buss purchased the Los Angeles Lakers, the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League, The Great Western Forum and a 13,000-acre Kern County ranch in June, 1979, in what was then the largest sports transaction of all-time.

An era of success unrivaled in Southern California professional sports followed. The Lakers won five world championships and appeared in nine NBA championship series in 12 years. The success of the Lakers is attributable to the combined efforts of great players, outstanding coaching, intelligent management and imaginative marketing. This teamwork, under Jerry Buss's direction, created an enormous popularity that helped the NBA achieve its current high level of national and international acceptance.

A graduate of the University of Wyoming with a Bachelor's degree in Chemistry, Buss earned his Ph.D in Physical Chemistry from the University of Southern California. After a brief career in the aerospace industry, Buss and Frank Mariani, an aerospace engineer, drew upon their scientific training to launch a career in real estate. For Buss, this venture was intended only to provide income to enable him to pursue his love for teaching. Soon, however, the real estate firm of Mariani-Buss Associates expanded so fast that its demands did not allow time for other professions.

Buss parlayed his original $1,000 investment in a West Los Angeles apartment building into assets that eventually enabled him to achieve his second love, which was ownership of a major league sports team.

Since his entry into the NBA Buss has initiated many innovative marketing changes, including a major advertising agreement with Great Western Bank in 1988 that resulted in the facility being named the Great Western Forum. Many of his marketing strategies are emulated by various NBA franchises as well as other teams in other leagues.

He is now in his second term as President of the NBA Board of Governors.

Among his other accomplishments, he and Bill Daniels launched Prime Ticket Network in 1985. It is now the nation's premier regional sports cable network (Prime Sports).

Buss' four grown children are, or have been, involved in his business operations. Jeanie is President of the GW Forum. She is responsible for the booking of events (concerts, etc.) and overall management of the arena. Janie is Special Events Director and oversees such events as the Great Western Freeze-Out college hockey tournament. John formerly ran the Los Angeles Lazers indoor soccer team. Jim is rapidly becoming one of the successful thoroughbred race horse trainers on the Southern California circuit and trains, among others, horses owned by his father.

For all of his accomplishments in business, Buss is as equally respected for his philanthropic efforts on behalf of highly divergent causes. While he is specifically drawn to supporting education, the needs of disadvantaged youth and of the elderly, his contributions are all encompassing.

For his efforts he has been honored by such organizations as the City of Hope, NAACP, the B'nai B'rith, United Negro College Fund, United Indian Development Associations, American Hebrew University, National Organization of Women, Variety Boys and Girls Club and the Los Angeles Human Relations Commission, among many others.

Additionally, he funds scholarships at his alma maters, Wyoming and USC, as well as having endowed the Magic Johnson Scholarship at Michigan State University.

EARVIN JOHNSON

VICE PRESIDENT

Following a legendary career during which he achieved every imaginable goal from a player's perspective and established himself as one of the NBA's all-time greatest performers, Earvin "Magic" Johnson is now making strides off the court, beginning his second season as the Lakers' Vice President.

Johnson, 36, assumed his post-playing career position with the Lakers on June 27, 1994, the same day he purchased a minority interest in the club from Dr. Jerry Buss. In this capacity, Earvin is actively involved in various management areas, working with Jerry West and Mitch Kupchak on player-related issues, in addition to marketing and public relations functions.

Johnson's illustrious playing career, which consisted of literally hundreds of highlights, is most accurately summarized with a single word — winner. He was the guiding force behind championship-winning teams at every conceivable level, including high school, college and professional, in addition to capturing an Olympic Gold Medal. In fact, the Lansing, Michigan native is one of only seven players in the history of the sport to capture an NCAA championship, NBA championship and an Olympic Gold Medal.

During his 12-year career, he led the Lakers to five NBA championships (1980, 82, 85, 87, 88) and nine appearances in the NBA Finals. The Lakers averaged 59 victories per season during the Magic Era, posting a combined .716 winning percentage in regular season and playoff competition (839-332). He was named the NBA's Most Valuable Player on three occasions (1987, 89, 90), NBA Finals MVP three times (1980, 82, 87), earned All-NBA First Team honors nine times, participated in 11 All-Star Games (MVP in 1990 and 1992) and concluded his career as the league's all-time assist leader (9,921).

Johnson was the Lakers first round choice (first overall) in the 1979 NBA Draft, becoming the club's first-ever overall number-one selection. The Lakers acquired the pick as compensation from New Orleans when the Jazz signed free agent guard Gail Goodrich prior to the 1976-77 campaign (won coin flip with Chicago).

The Lakers posted the NBA's second-best regular season record during Johnson's initial season in 1979-80 (60-22) and proceeded to win the NBA championship, beginning a journey that would eventually earn the organization "Professional Sports Franchise of the Decade" honors from Associated Press. Johnson's brilliant 42-point, 15-rebound, 7-assist performance in the absence of injured center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in the title-clinching game @ Philadelphia (5/16/80) remains one of the greatest feats by a first-year player in league history (42 points represents the most for a rookie in NBA Finals history). For his scintillating performance, Magic became the first — and only — rookie in NBA annals to win MVP honors of the Finals. He finished his rookie campaign, which began in stunning fashion with a victory in San Diego on opening night (10/12/79), as runner-up to Larry Bird in Rookie of the Year balloting.

One of the game's greatest passers who had a flair for the dramatic, Magic orchestrated the Lakers' infamous "Showtime" offense. The 6'9" point guard, who revolutionized the position, paced the NBA in assists four separate seasons, highlighted by a career-best of 13.1 in 1983-84. He established a club record with 24 dishes 11/17/89 vs. Denver, one of 31 occasions in which he registered 20-plus assists during his career. He became the NBA's all-time assist leader on April 15, 1991 vs. Dallas, recording his 9,888th career assist on a feed to Terry Teagle (eclipsing Oscar Robertson's 17-year mark). Although that mark has since been eclipsed by John Stockton, he still remains the league's all-time leader in playoff assists (2,320), shares the NBA single-game playoff record for assists (24 vs. Phoenix 5/15/84) and averaged an NBA Finals record 14.0 assists in a six-game series vs. Boston in 1985.

Earvin enjoyed his finest all-around campaign in 1986-87, averaging a career-high 23.9 points and 12.2 assists en route to his first NBA Most Valuable Player award and the first of back-to-back NBA titles for the Lakers. He scored a career-best 46 points 12/23/86 vs. Sacramento, and topped the 40-point plateau 10 times overall. He concluded his career with a total of 136 triple-doubles and led the Lakers in scoring three seasons and in assists nine times. Additionally, he paced the NBA in steals during both the 1980-81 (3.43) and 1981-82 (2.67) campaigns and ranks seventh on the league's all-time steals list (1,698). He became the only player in club history to lead the NBA in free throw percentage during the 1988-89 season (.911).

After announcing his retirement from the NBA on November 7, 1991 due to the HIV virus, Johnson's immense popularity resulted in his being voted as a starter in the 1992 All-Star Game, during which he promptly earned MVP honors. Later that year, he was a member of the 1992 United States' gold-medal winning Olympic Basketball team in Barcelona. He retired ranked among the Lakers' all-time leaders in virtually every statistical category, averaging 19.7 points, 11.4 assists and 7.3 rebounds in 874 career regular season contests.

Johnson starred two seasons collegiately at Michigan State University, where he led the Spartans to the Big Ten title as a freshman (25-5) and to the NCAA championship as a sophomore. He earned MVP accolades of the 1979 Final Four as MSU defeated Indiana State and Larry Bird in the title game, and is one of only four players to capture an NCAA and NBA championship in back-to-back seasons.

JERRY WEST

EXECUTIVE V.P. OF BASKETBALL OPERATIONS

Many years ago, the NBA introduced the league's new logo which depicted the silhouette of a player dribbling a basketball. It was a model of a perfect basketball player; It was — and still is — a model of Jerry West.

Considering the tremendous success the former NBA star has enjoyed during his tenure in the Lakers' front office, the league might also want to consider using his likeness on the Executive of the Year award, too. Last season, Jerry captured NBA Executive of the Year honors for the first time, only months after hiring a new head coach (Del Harris), selecting a talented rookie in the 1994 NBA Draft (Eddie Jones) and acquiring an all-star player via the trade route (Cedric Ceballos). It was a long-overdue accolade for a man who helped guide the Lakers through one of the greatest decades in sports history, and has once again quietly positioned the team among the NBA's elite.

West, whose accomplishments as an executive in the Lakers' front office rival that of his Hall of Fame playing career in their backcourt, begins his 14th year at the top of the club's management hierarchy in 1995-96. His current tenure as the club's top decision-maker is third longest in the NBA, trailing only Phoenix's Jerry Colangelo and Dallas' Norm Sonju.

During his prosperous 13-year stint as both General Manager (1982-1994) and Executive Vice President (1995), the Lakers have recorded the NBA's highest regular season winning percentage (.660, 704-362), highlighted by three NBA championships (1985, 1987, 1988) and seven trips to the NBA Finals.

However, success and Jerry West have been synonymous for many years, especially in Los Angeles over the last 35 seasons. Since the Lakers moved to Southern California in 1960, the club has qualified for post-season play in all but three seasons, two of which the former sharpshooter was not affiliated with the club. Jerry has been affiliated — in one capacity or another — with the Lakers for each of their six championships in Los Angeles.

Appropriately dubbed "Mr. Clutch" because of his uncanny ability to produce with the game on the line, West established himself as one of the greatest players in NBA history throughout his brilliant 14-year career. Spending each of those 14 seasons with the Lakers, he led the team in scoring seven times, averaging 30-plus points on four occasions, highlighted by a career-high of 31.3 during the 1965-66 campaign. In fact, Jerry has the unique distinction of being the oldest player in league history to average over 30 points a game (31.2 in 1969-70, 31 years old). When he retired following the 1973-74 campaign, he had become only the third player in league history to surpass the 25,000 point plateau, finishing with a career scoring average of 27.0, which still ranks fourth-best in NBA history.

The Lakers' all-time scoring leader and the ninth leading scorer in league history (25,192), West was the NBA's all-time playoff leader in points (4,457) and assists (970) until Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Earvin Johnson, respectively, eclipsed his totals. His playoff scoring average (29.1) is second highest in NBA history, trailing only Michael Jordan (34.4). Additionally, West established a still-standing league record by scoring 20-plus points in 25 consecutive appearances in the NBA Finals (1966-1970).

Included among Jerry's many outstanding accomplishments as a player were several incredible feats, notably the compiling of a 40.6 scoring average during the 1965 playoffs (11 games) — including an all-time NBA record 46.3 average during a six-game series vs. Baltimore — and the sinking of a 60-foot shot as time expired to send Game 3 of the 1970 NBA Finals vs. New York into overtime (4/29/70). He was also a member of the Lakers' first (L.A.) NBA championship team in 1972, helping lead Los Angeles to a 69-13 regular season record and a 33-game winning streak, both all-time league records. Additionally, he led the NBA in assists (9.7) during the 1971-72 campaign, and holds the NBA record for most free throws made in a single season (840 in 1965-66).

Selected to the All-NBA First Team 10 times and the NBA's All-Defensive First Team four times, West was also selected to play in 13 consecutive All-Star games during his career, capturing MVP honors in the 1972 classic at the GW Forum. Jerry was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in 1979 and named to the NBA's 35th Anniversary Team in 1980. His #44 jersey was retired by the Lakers and lifted to the rafters of the GW Forum on November 9, 1983.

Following retirement at the conclusion of the 1973-74 season and a two-year hiatus from the rigors of the NBA, he returned to the Lakers for the 1976-77 campaign, replacing Bill Sharman as the club's head coach. In his initial year, the Lakers posted an NBA-best 53-29 record, qualifying for the playoffs for the first of 17 consecutive seasons. Overall, the Lakers posted a 145-101 record during his three seasons at the helm (.589).

Following his three-year coaching stint, West spent three years as a special consultant with the Lakers (1979-1982). He was elevated to General Manager prior to the 1982-83 campaign, where he handled day-to-day operations and all player personnel decisions. He continues to perform those and other duties as Executive Vice President of Basketball Operations.

West attended West Virginia University (1956-60), where he was a two-time All-American and concluded his collegiate career with a 24.8 scoring average. Following his senior year, he became the Lakers' first round pick (first-ever pick in LA Lakers history) in the 1960 NBA Draft (second overall). Before entering

MITCHELL KUPCHAK

GENERAL MANAGER

The old adage that states "you are only as successful as the people with whom you surround yourself" can certainly be applied to Jerry West and the Lakers' front office. West, whose unprecedented success was finally recognized on a national basis last season when he earned the NBA's Executive of the Year Award, relies heavily upon the expertise of one of the most knowledgeable and hard-working executives in basketball, General Manager Mitch Kupchak.

Likewise, Kupchak has benefited from West's wizardry. In tandem, the two anchor one of the most well-respected front office staffs in professional sports.

Kupchak, entering his 10th campaign as an executive with the Lakers following a 10-year NBA playing career, was rewarded for his outstanding efforts in June of 1994, when he was elevated to General Manager, a position formerly held by West. Over the last nine years, Mitch has established himself as one of the top and most sought-after executives in the NBA, and has played a prominent role in the Lakers' past success and recent revitalization.

Although his job description includes a variety of responsibilities, Mitch's main priorities range from the organization of the club's training camp and preseason schedule, to overseeing the Lakers' entry in the annual Southern California Summer Pro League. He also assists in the day-to-day management of the club (personnel decisions, contract negotiations, etc.) and the scouting of collegiate players.

Mitch was a first-round draft choice of the Washington Bullets in 1976 (13th overall). He spent the first five years of his career with the Bullets, earning NBA All-Rookie Team honors following the 1976-77 campaign. He posted a career-best field goal percentage during his rookie season (.572), a figure which at that time represented the tenth highest in league history. During the 1977-78 campaign, Mitch played an important role in Washington's drive to the NBA championship, posting a career-high scoring average (15.9) and finishing third on the club in rebounding (7.4). Ironically, he tallied a career-high-tying 32 points against the Lakers on November 24, 1978, and his scoring average that season (14.6) ranked second among all NBA reserves.

Following his stint with the Bullets, Mitch was acquired by the Lakers on August 5, 1981 in exchange for Jim Chones, Brad Holland and a pair of draft choices. A reserve during his five-year tenure with the Bullets, Mitch was quickly inserted into the club's starting lineup during the first 26 games of the 1981-82 campaign with the Lakers, averaging 14.3 points and 8.1 rebounds. Unfortunately, after the Lakers had posted a sparkling 19-7 record, Mitch suffered multiple injuries to his left knee during a game at the San Diego Sports Arena on December 19, 1981, an injury which required two major operations. It was feared — even expected — that he would never play again, and, in fact, missed the entire 1982-83 campaign. However, he proved doctors wrong by returning to the Lakers in the early portion of the 1983-84 season after undergoing intense daily therapy for 16 months.

His persistence eventually paid big dividends, as the reserve forward/center played a vital role in the Lakers march to the NBA title in 1985, allowing him to become one of only 15 players in league history to win an NBA championship with two different clubs (Washington and Los Angeles). Additionally, he remains one of only four players in club history to convert at least 10 field goals in a game without a miss (11-11 vs. San Antonio 11/20/81), joining Wilt Chamberlain, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Byron Scott.

Prior to the start of the 1986-87 campaign, after another lengthy rehabilitation following arthroscopic knee surgery, Mitch retired as a player and became Assistant General Manager of the Lakers. He concluded his NBA career averaging 10.2 points and 5.4 rebounds (.523 FG%).

Kupchak, who signed his original contract with the Lakers in August of 1981, had a provision in his long-term deal which stipulated he would continue to work for the Lakers in some capacity following his playing career. In preparation for that career move, he studied for an MBA degree at UCLA during his spare time and rehabilitation stints, and received that degree in February of 1987.

A long-time Yankees fan, Mitch was born in Hicksville, New York on May 24, 1954 and starred at Brentwood High School on Long Island. He was an All-America standout at the University of North Carolina, where he earned ACC Player of the Year honors as a senior (17.6 points, 11.3 rebounds). The 6'9" forward averaged a career-high 18.5 points during his junior campaign, and ranked eighth overall in the NCAA in field goal percentage that season (.602). He was one of 20 former UNC standouts to have his jersey (#21) honored and raised to the rafters of the Smith Center in Chapel Hill during a special ceremony last November. To this day, Mitch lives and dies with the success of the Tar Heels' basketball program, continuing his close relationship with UNC coach Dean Smith.

Prior to his initial NBA campaign, Mitch was the starting center on the gold-medal winning United States team in the 1976 Olympics, and was also a member of the gold-medal winning United States team in the 1973 World University Games.

Mitch and his wife Claire live in Brentwood with their lovable dogs, Sidney and Cleo, and their cat, Portia.

BILL SHARMAN

CONSULTANT

He was briefly the Deion Sanders and Bo Jackson of his era, but it's the numbers of championships that Bill Sharman has won (12) — not the number of sports that he played — which separates him from most present or former athletes.

Sharman, beginning his sixth year as a Special Consultant with the Lakers, provides the front office with a tremendous amount of basketball experience and a history of success that is unparalleled in the business. Since beginning his professional basketball career in 1950, the Abilene, Texas native has been an important member of a championship winning team on 12 occasions, either as a player, coach or executive. The dozen titles have been captured with four different teams, in three respective leagues and in four separate capacities.

Bill began his championship odyssey with the Boston Celtics, capturing the first of four NBA titles as an active player in 1957. During his 10-year stint with the Celtics, Boston won four NBA titles (1957, 1959, 1960, 1961), finished in first place five times and never suffered through a losing season. He earned All-NBA honors seven times and participated in eight NBA All-Star Games, earning MVP accolades of the 1955 contest. Arguably the greatest shooter during his era, Bill was the first NBA guard to post a field goal percentage above .400 for a season (.436, 1952-53) and his .883 career free throw percentage still ranks sixth among the NBA's all-time leaders (only Mark Price, Rick Barry, Calvin Murphy, Scott Skiles and Larry Bird own higher career percentages). He spent his entire career with the Celtics, except for a brief stint with the Washington Capitals during his rookie campaign.

Bill was inducted into the NBA's Hall of Fame in 1975 after concluding his career with averages of 17.8 points and 3.0 assists in 711 regular season games.

After retiring from the Celtics in 1961, Bill began his distinguished coaching career in the American Basketball League, winning his fifth championship overall in 1962 with the Cleveland Pipers. Nine years later, he won an ABA crown as coach of the Utah Stars (1970-71). One season after coaching the Stars to the ABA league title, Bill guided the 1971-72 Lakers to the NBA championship, the first for the franchise in Los Angeles history. The 1971-72 club posted an all-time NBA-best 69-13 regular season mark, highlighted by a professional sports record of 33 consecutive victories. That storybook campaign — one of three in which he guided the Lakers to a regular season division title — earned him NBA Coach of the Year honors. Overall, in seven seasons as an NBA head coach (three with the San Francisco Warriors and four with the Lakers), Bill's teams accumulated an impressive 330-240 record (.581).

Following his coaching career, Bill directed his efforts to the front office, serving as General Manager of the Lakers for seven years (1975-82). In that capacity, he proved not only successful, but added a dose of good luck, representing the Lakers when the club won coin flips that landed the organization their only two overall number one draft picks in club history — Magic Johnson (1979) and James Worthy (1982).

During his tenure as General Manager, the Lakers claimed two NBA titles (1980, 1982). He then assumed the role of club President (winning three additional titles) for seven years (1982-90) prior to being appointed to his present position (1990), which encompasses scouting and player development.

Although Bill is renowned for his outstanding accomplishments as a professional basketball player and executive, he enjoyed an immensely successful athletic career as both a collegian and high school student. After spending two years in the Navy following high school, he enrolled at USC, where he earned a starting assignment on both the Trojans' basketball and baseball teams as a freshman. He was a two-time basketball All-America with the Trojans and was inducted into USC's newly-created Hall of Fame in May of 1994, though he elected to leave school early after signing a contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Although he never appeared in a major league contest, Bill became part of baseball history on two occasions during the 1951 season. First, he earned the dubious distinction of having been ejected from a major league game despite never making an official appearance in one (bench clearing brawl). Later that same season, he was in the Dodgers' dugout when Bobby Thomson hit the dramatic home run to lead the New York Giants into the World Series.

During a five-year minor league career, Bill produced career-high figures in home runs (16) and RBIs (77) for St. Paul of the American Association in 1952.

The 6'1" Sharman was selected by the NBA's Washington Capitals in the second round of the 1950 draft, and was a two-sport professional athlete for five seasons (1950-55) before electing to devote full-time to basketball in 1955. After appearing in 31 games during his rookie NBA campaign with the Capitals (1950-51), he was selected by the Fort Wayne Pistons in the 1951 dispersal draft, but was traded to the Celtics later that year having never played a single minute with the Pistons.

Competing in football, baseball, track and basketball at Porterville (CA) High School, Bill also managed to find time to win the state amateur tennis title. He earned a total of 15 varsity letters in high school and was named California's Outstanding High School Athlete in 1944.

Bill and his wife Joyce live in Marina del Rey. He has two daughters, Nancy and Janice, and two sons, Tom and Jerry, from a previous marriage.

DEL HARRIS

HEAD COACH

When Del Harris was introduced to the Los Angeles media following his hiring prior to last season, he displayed a witty sense of humor usually reserved for Hollywood's comedians. When asked by longtime announcer Chick Hearn what he thought the team needed to compete at a higher level, Harris, without hesitation, replied, "a new broadcaster!"

Throughout the balance of the press conference — entangled between several other humorous answers and anecdotes — the new coach mentioned on several occasions how he was convinced the Lakers were capable of not only improving during the 1994-95 season, but showing significant improvement, much like Indiana and Atlanta had the previous season.

On that particular issue, though, he was extremely serious and straightforward.

Resembling somewhat of a prophet a few months later, Harris guided the 1994-95 Lakers to the ninth-best record in the NBA (48-34) and a remarkable 15-game improvement from the previous season. Furthermore, Harris' Lakers were the youngest team in the league to qualify for the playoffs, eliminated 57-game winner Seattle in the first round (3-1) and extended the San Antonio Spurs, the team with the NBA's best overall record during the regular season, to six games in the Western Conference Semifinals.

For his efforts and the Lakers' outstanding turnaround, Harris earned NBA Coach of the Year honors last season, joining Bill Sharman (1972) and Pat Riley (1990) as the only coaches in club history to earn that distinction. Los Angeles' 48 victories equalled the second most during Del's 10-year NBA coaching tenure, surpassed only by his 1988-89 Milwaukee Bucks squad (49).

Such sideline success should come as no surprise to those familiar with Del's impressive track record. The 58-year-old Plainfield, Indiana native, who became the Lakers' first coach since Bill Sharman assumed the position in 1971 to bring an NBA-filled coaching resume to Los Angeles, has flourished at virtually every level, including the NBA, collegiate, overseas and high school ranks. His reputation for extracting the most out of his teams — to the point of overachieving — is well documented.

Appointed as the twelfth head coach in Los Angeles franchise history on May 13, 1994, Harris enters the 1995-96 campaign — his second with the Lakers — as the 25th winningest coach in NBA history (380 career victories). Only eight active coaches (Lenny Wilkens, Pat Riley, Bill Fitch, Dick Motta, Don Nelson, Larry Brown, Jerry Sloan and Mike Fratello) have accrued more wins, and his teams have qualified for postseason play in eight of his nine full seasons.

Prior to joining the Lakers, Del's previous coaching stint transpired in Milwaukee, where he guided the Bucks to four consecutive playoff appearances and compiled a 191-154 overall record (.554) in his four-plus seasons at the helm (1987-91). Milwaukee enjoyed such success despite annually leading the league in player games missed due to injuries, a dubious distinction the Bucks held each of Harris' first three years with the club. During his tenure in Milwaukee, the Bucks established several franchise records, including longest winning streak at home (18), free throw percentage (.820, a then-NBA record) and steals (894). Additionally, the Bucks, situated in the rugged Central Division, became the first team in NBA history to finish in fourth place with as many as 49 victories (49-33 in 1988-89). Del relinquished his head coaching post with the Bucks 17 games into the 1991-92 campaign, but remained with the team as Vice President of Basketball Operations until April of the following year.

Before assuming Milwaukee's vacant coaching position in June of 1987, Harris served the Bucks for four seasons as both a scout and assistant coach under Don Nelson (1983-1987).

Del landed his initial NBA job with the Houston Rockets in 1976, spending three years as an assistant under Tom Nissalke (was also an assistant with the ABA Utah Stars and at the University of Utah prior to his NBA ascension). The Rockets promoted Harris following Nissalke's departure prior to the 1979-80 campaign, beginning a career which has seen him coach a total of 755 NBA contests (regular season). He led the Rockets to three consecutive playoff berths his first three campaigns in the Lone Star state, highlighted by a trip to the 1981 NBA Finals, where Houston succumbed to the Boston Celtics in six games. The Rockets established a then-NBA record during their march to the Western Conference Championship that season, winning eight games on the road during the playoffs, including the decisive game over the Lakers at the GW Forum in the first round.

Harris endured his lone non-playoff season as a head coach his final year in Houston (1982-83), as the Rockets, minus the loss of free agent superstar Moses Malone, stumbled to a 14-68 record. Del has compiled an overall 380-375 regular season record (.503) in his nine-plus seasons as an NBA head coach, and his teams have averaged 44.8 victories per season excluding his final campaign in Houston. He has amassed a 26-36 playoff mark (.419), including a 5-5 record last season with the Lakers.

Despite taking a leave of absence from the coaching rigors for two seasons after leaving the Bucks, Harris nonetheless remained close to the professional and collegiate game. While working the majority of the time out of his home in Ft. Meyers, Florida, Del was a consultant with the Sacramento Kings, where he performed

BILL BERTKA

ASSISTANT COACH

He's the Jack of all Trades in the now-specialized world of the NBA, featuring a resume longer than the Declaration of Independence. Simply put, if Bill Bertka hasn't done it, the position must not exist.

During his long-standing tenure in the NBA, the Lakers' senior assistant coach has served in numerous different capacities, including that of a scout, general manager, player personnel director, assistant coach and, yes, even head coach.

That final distinction was achieved late in the 1993-94 season when Bill delved into the uncharted waters of the head coaching business, albeit briefly and unexpected. Although having never officially undertaken the duties of a head coach in the NBA, "Bill Bertka" is entrenched in the record books as serving the Lakers in that role for a brief two-game stint in March of 1994 (3/23 and 3/24), when he guided the club to a 1-1 record prior to Earvin Johnson's 16-game tenure.

Yes, he's done it all.

Bertka, who has been associated with the game of basketball for 40-plus seasons and is entering his 15th campaign as an assistant with the Lakers (1981 to present), spearheads coach Del Harris' support staff with a wealth of experience that is duplicated by few in the profession. In fact, Bill has accrued more years of service as an assistant NBA coach (23) than any understudy currently active in the league. Despite his longevity, his enthusiasm, work ethic and love for the game remains one of his greatest assets.

The veteran coach has enjoyed a long and distinguished basketball career, which began as a player at Kent State University. Following a stint playing in the now-defunct National Industrial Basketball League, Bill embarked on what would be a fulfilling career in the coaching and scouting aspects of the business.

He served as head coach at Hancock College in Santa Maria from 1954-57, leading the team to a 97-13 record overall, including a 42-game winning streak and a Junior College State Championship in 1957. Prior to his stint in the professional ranks, he returned to his alma mater, where he served as head coach for four years and helped elevate Kent State's program to the major-college level.

Bill, 68, is actually in his second tour of duty with the Lakers. He originally joined the club in 1968, serving as the club's chief scout and director of player personnel, a position he held for six years. He did an abundance of scouting for the 1971-72 Lakers team that posted an all-time NBA-best 69-13 record and won a professional sports record 33 consecutive games. In 1974, Bertka joined the expansion New Orleans Jazz and served the club in a variety of roles, including that of general manager, director of player personnel and assistant coach. He was the primary architect for the Jazz franchise during the first eight years of the team's existence, before rejoining the Lakers early in the 1981-82 campaign. During his latest stint with the Lakers, the club has won four NBA championships, including back-to-back titles in 1987 and 1988.

A firm believer in utilizing statistical information when evaluating the performance and tendencies of a player, Bill spends countless hours preparing data-filled reports for the Lakers' coaching staff. Preparation — prior to, during and after games — is one element in which Bill will never be shortchanged. He is often presented with the opportunity to utilize another one of his most formidable assets — working individually on the development of young players. In recent years, Bill has dedicated extra hours before and after practice with players such as Vlade Divac, George Lynch and Elden Campbell, continuing to hone their skills and monitor their development. It's no coincidence that each of those pupils — and many more — have displayed remarkable improvement since Bill's tutelage began. And, chances are, the same scenario will unfold in future seasons with future players.

The Santa Barbara native is well known as the founder of Bertka Views, one of the most successful college scouting services in the country, now operated by his wife, Solveig. Many of the nation's premier college basketball programs utilize Bertka Views as their sole scouting service. In the early 1980s, Bill added an eager youngster by the name of Randy Pfund to his scouting staff, a decision that later helped the future Laker coach land his initial NBA job.

During the summer of 1992, Bill added another feather to his cap, serving as a scout for the United States' Olympic basketball team at the European Qualifying Tournament in Zaragoza, Spain.

Bill had the double distinction in 1989 of being inducted into a Hall of Fame in each of his hometowns. In May, he was inducted into the Santa Barbara Sports Hall of Fame, where he makes his present home. In October, he was inducted into the Summit County (Ohio) Sports Hall of Fame, where he grew up as a child.

Bill and Solveig have two married daughters, Britt (wife of former Lakers' assistant coach Jim Eyen) and Kris, and make their home in Santa Barbara.

Walt Frazier 7	Michael Jordan 6	MICHAEL COOPER 5
Dave DeBusschere 6	Dennis Rodman 6	John Havlicek 5

ASSISTANT COACH

When Del Harris accepted the Lakers head coaching position in May of 1994, he brought with him a reputation as a defensive-minded coach. Not surprisingly, in what would be equivalent to a baseball manager appointing Rod Carew as his hitting instructor, or a football coach asking Walter Payton to tutor his running backs, Harris elected to retain the services of defensive genius Michael Cooper on his coaching staff.

Cooper, beginning his second complete season as an assistant coach with the Lakers, was a defensive force during his outstanding playing career and was an intricate part of one of the greatest teams in NBA history. The slender 6'6" swingman helped lead the Lakers to eight appearances in the NBA Finals during a stretch in which the franchise earned Professional Sports "Franchise of the Decade" honors from the Associated Press. Only once during the entire decade (1981) did Cooper and the Lakers fail to advance past the first round of the playoffs, losing to Del Harris and the eventual Western Conference Champion Houston Rockets.

Cooper, who had no previous experience in the coaching ranks until March of 1994, had an opportunity to get his feet wet during the latter stages of the 1993-94 campaign, serving as an assistant under Magic Johnson for the final 16 games of the campaign. He even assumed the role of head coach for one contest (@ Portland 4/9/94) while the former Lakers superstar attended a previously scheduled engagement. This season, he will continue to aid Harris and provide the intangibles that only a former player with his credentials can supply.

Prior to entering the coaching profession, Michael continued to exhibit the tireless enthusiasm and energy he displayed on the court for 12 brilliant seasons, serving almost three full years in the Lakers' front office as Special Assistant to General Manager Jerry West. In that role, Cooper's duties included the scouting of college and CBA players, and participating in summer league activities. He was also actively involved in community service work, where he represented the Lakers as a guest speaker at civic and charity events.

One of the most popular players in franchise history, the Los Angeles native was a third-round choice (60th overall) of the Lakers in the 1978 NBA Draft (he is one of only five players in Los Angeles franchise history to play for the club after being drafted lower than 59th overall). Michael played collegiately at the University of New Mexico, where he earned All-American honors as a senior. Prior to his stint at UNM, he played two years at Pasadena City College, averaging a career-best 20.2 points as a sophomore. The durable guard/forward proved to be an ironman following his rookie NBA campaign (1978-79), during which season he was inactive for all but three games after suffering a torn knee ligament in the Southern California Summer Pro League. Following that setback, he appeared in each of the club's 82 regular season games six times, including 455 consecutive contests at one point (1982-88).

Cooper was a vital member of five NBA Championship teams with the Lakers (1980, 1982, 1985, 1987, 1988) and retired after the 1990 season ranked among the club's all-time leaders in a number of statistical categories, including first in three-point field goals (378), third in games played (793), fifth in minutes (21,784), second in steals (966), third in blocked shots (487), fourth in assists (3,451), fifth in defensive rebounds (1,860), seventh in offensive rebounds (682) and sixth in free throw percentage (.829). He also retired as the NBA's all-time playoff leader in three-point field goals made (121), attempted (304) and fourth in NBA playoff games played (159). The Lakers won an astounding 73% of their regular season contests during his 11 complete seasons (654-248).

As has been the trend with numerous NBA players in recent years, Michael traveled overseas following the 1989-90 campaign, electing to conclude his playing career in the Italian League. His foreign journey lasted only one season, however, and he returned to the United States after playing a single season with Il Messagero Roma. Following his sabbatical to Rome, he re-joined the Lakers organization in his former capacity as Special Assistant to the General Manager prior to the 1991-92 season.

Despite his prominent three-point shooting and durability, Cooper was best known for his tenacious defense and was dubbed by former Boston Celtics superstar Larry Bird as the greatest defensive player he had ever competed against during his brilliant career. He was a member of the league's All-Defensive First Team five times and named the NBA's Defensive Player of the Year in 1987, becoming the lone player in franchise history to capture that award.

Cooper, 39, runs annual summer basketball camps for children in both Albuquerque, New Mexico and Pasadena, and his involvement in charity work extends back to his rookie year as a player. His efforts in community and charity work were so exceptional, in fact, that he was honored in 1986 as co-recipient (with Rory Sparrow) of the NBA's J. Walter Kennedy Citizenship Award.

Three years ago, he established the Michael Cooper Foundation, a non-profit organization designed to assist children in a variety of ways. One particular message Michael and the foundation attempts to deliver is the importance of youngsters attaining career goals through "Coop's Five D's", which stress determination, dedication, desire, discipline and decision-making as necessary intangibles when striving for success.

This past summer, in addition to traveling to the Philippines to participate in a basketball clinic, Michael dedicated a portion of his time as a coach in the "Say No Classic," a women's summer basketball league held annually in Los Angeles.

Michael lives in Culver City and has three children — Michael II (14), Simone (12) and Miles (5).

LARRY DREW

ASSISTANT COACH

His impeccable wardrobe attracts a lot of attention, but it's Larry Drew's coaching ability that is drawing the rave reviews. Drew, entering his fourth season as an assistant with the Lakers, has earned his stripes as one of the top young coaches in the league, and his future in the business appears as promising as that of the Lakers.

Having served under both Randy Pfund and Del Harris during his brief coaching career, Larry has performed a host of different responsibilities, gaining valuable experience and providing astute insight. In addition to his coaching duties the last three seasons, Larry had been responsible for the team's advance scouting, spending a large portion of his time on the road analyzing upcoming opponents and preparing written reports. Last season, however, the Kansas City native eliminated scouting duties from his agenda and was able to devote his entire time as a bench coach. Furthermore, Larry spends a portion of his summers coaching the Lakers' entry in the Southern California Summer Pro League, where he works with the club's draft picks and potential training camp invitees.

Larry's experience as a former NBA guard has proven to be an extremely valuable asset on coach Harris' staff, especially with a roster dotted with talented youngsters such as Nick Van Exel, Eddie Jones and Anthony Peeler. His pre-game ritual — other than the customary viewing of films and final strategic planning — usually includes a lengthy on-court workout with members of the team, actually addressing their individual skills and conditioning.

Prior to beginning a successful 10-year NBA playing career, Drew was an honorable mention All-America at the University of Missouri (1976-80), averaging a career-best 15.2 points during his junior season. He finished his collegiate career having started a school-record 104 consecutive games, then ranking first all-time in Tigers' history in assists (433) and second all-time in points (1,401).

Drew, 37, was originally a first round draft choice of the Detroit Pistons in 1980 (17th overall). After spending his initial campaign with the Pistons, he spent subsequent seasons in Kansas City, Sacramento and Los Angeles (Clippers and Lakers). Larry enjoyed his most prosperous NBA campaign in 1982-83, averaging career-high figures in scoring (20.1), assists (8.1) and steals (1.7) with Kansas City. His assist average that season ranked fourth overall in the NBA.

Following a year with Scavolini Pesaro of the Italian League (1988-89), Larry concluded his NBA career with the Lakers, playing a reserve role on both the 1989-90 and 1990-91 clubs. He remains the Lakers' all-time leader in three-point field goal percentage (.404). Larry concluded his NBA career having played in a total of 714 NBA contests, averaging 11.4 points and 5.2 assists.

Immediately following his playing career, he served as Vice President of the Magic Johnson Foundation Inc. In that capacity, Larry was responsible for managing the activities of the foundation, including fund raising, AIDS education awareness and the distribution of grants.

During the summer of 1994, Larry joined "Magic Johnson's All-Stars" on a playing tour in Japan, and, although his career as an active NBA player is over, he remains a fitness fanatic, squeezing workouts and running into his busy daily schedule. Larry is also an eloquent public speaker, and was Master of Ceremonies of a luncheon last October honoring the Lakers.

a variety of different functions, including the scouting of collegiate and NBA players, and providing his input on player personnel decisions. He held that position until accepting the Lakers' offer in May of 1994.

Successful NBA tenures are only a small sample of Del's coaching background. He has accumulated a total of 31 years of coaching experience in the NBA, ABA, college, Europe, South America and public schools. Del guided Earlham College (Indiana) to a school record 176 victories and the first three conference championships in school history during his nine-year stint there (1965-74).

Venturing outside of the United States, Harris coached seven seasons in Puerto Rico (1969-75), posting a 176-61 and winning three national championships. His coaching career commenced at the prep level in Tennessee and Indiana, during which time he compiled a 79-36 record and won three conference and one sectional championship.

Harris attended Milligan College (Tennessee), where he graduated cum laude in 1959 with a degree in religion. Del earned his master's degree in history from Indiana University in 1965. Although he never played in the NBA or major leagues, Del received four letters each in basketball and baseball while at Milligan, and did participate in the annual National Baseball Congress Tournament on numerous occasions.

Del and his wife Ann live in Pacific Palisades with their son Dominic (5). Del has four other children — Larry, Alex, Stan and Carey — from a previous marriage, each of whom played basketball at the collegiate level and are college graduates. (DEL HARRIS' NBA Coaching Record — page 18)

SPECIAL ASSISTANT COACH

He's had more lives than Morris in recent years, but Kurt Rambis is expected to finally hang up his playing sneakers for good this season.

Rambis, following a long and gratifying playing career that ended — barring another unexpected call of duty — right where it began with an NBA championship 14 years earlier, enters his second season as a Special Assistant Coach with the Lakers in 1995-96. Kurt will continue to work on various projects with the club, including special assignment coaching, scouting and community relations. He had assumed his new position with the Lakers at the beginning of last season, and served in that capacity until a wave of injuries beset the club in late January. Unexpectedly summoned into action for the second time in two years, Kurt played sparingly the last three months of the season, averaging 1.7 points and 1.3 rebounds in 26 appearances.

Rambis, 37, distinguished himself as one of the NBA's most renowned blue-collar workers throughout his career. His all-out hustle, rebounding and defensive intensity were key elements during the Lakers' "Showtime" Era, helping spark the club to four NBA titles during his initial stint in Los Angeles (1982, 1985, 1987, 1988). Later, Kurt's aggressive play enabled him to prolong his career several additional years, when he was asked to be a stabilizing influence for the expansion Charlotte Hornets and possibly the missing link for the title-hungry Phoenix Suns.

The Cupertino, California native took the unconventional route to the NBA, earning a roster spot with the Lakers in 1981 after playing a year in Athens, Greece (1980-81). He was originally a third round choice of the New York Knicks in the 1980 NBA Draft (58th overall), but never played a minute with New York after being released in training camp (signed to a 10-day contract with the Knicks in December of 1980, but never appeared in a game).

After his brief four month, 20-game stint in Greece (AEK team), Kurt signed a non-guaranteed free agent contract with the Lakers on September 13, 1981. And, although the club had recently acquired veteran power forward Mitch Kupchak from the Washington Bullets, coach Pat Riley quickly became enamored with Kurt's work ethic and elected to add the Forum fan favorite to the Lakers' 12-man roster at the outset of the 1981-82 campaign. Less than two months into the season, Rambis, who had played only token minutes to that point, was thrust into the club's regular rotation after Kupchak suffered a career-threatening knee injury in December. He then moved into the Lakers starting lineup in January, where he proceeded to start 43 of the final 45 regular season games and helped propel Los Angeles to the 1982 NBA title. He concluded his unsuspecting rookie campaign as the club's third-leading rebounder (5.4).

Over the next six seasons, Kurt continued to play a complementary role in the astounding success of the Lakers, joining Magic Johnson, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, James Worthy and Byron Scott in a star-studded lineup that produced Pacific Division titles each of Kurt's first seven years with the club — and three additional NBA championships. With the exception of the 1983-84 campaign (missed 32 games to begin that season with a sore left foot), he appeared in a minimum of 70 games each season and ranked among the club's leading rebounders.

Prior to the 1988-89 campaign, the expansion Charlotte Hornets signed Kurt as an unrestricted free agent (7/28/88), ending his seven-year marriage with the Lakers. He enjoyed his most prosperous NBA campaign from a statistical standpoint during the Hornets' inaugural season, averaging career-high figures in both scoring (11.1) and rebounding (9.4). During that same season, Kurt recorded single-game career-highs in points (23 vs. Golden State 3/30/89) and rebounds (22 vs. San Antonio 2/25/89).

During the early portion of the 1989-90 season, the Hornets traded Rambis to the Phoenix Suns (12/13/90) in exchange for Armon Gilliam, who was the second player chosen overall in the 1987 NBA Draft. He spent the next two-plus seasons in Phoenix, where he helped solidify the Suns' frontcourt and was a part-time starter for Cotton Fitzsimmons' club. The Suns released Kurt on November 20, 1992, but he quickly resurfaced with the Sacramento Kings one week later (11/27/92).

At the conclusion of his one-year stint in Sacramento, Kurt assumed his NBA playing career — which had spanned a dozen years after his hiatus to Greece — was complete. He began to travel abroad with Magic Johnson's touring All-Star team in August of 1993, which kept him actively involved in the game he loved, and in good physical condition in case he received an unanticipated call from an NBA team in need of a veteran rebounder.

Seven days prior to the start of training camp in 1993, Kurt received that call. The Lakers, in need of an experienced veteran to surround their core of young, talented players, re-signed the Santa Clara alum, making him one of only seven players in club history to enjoy two separate playing stints with the Lakers. He appeared in 50 games that season (1993-94), averaging 3.3 points and 3.8 rebounds.

Kurt concluded his 14-year NBA career (nine with the Lakers) ranked fourth on the club's all-time field goal percentage list (.550). Additionally, he ranks fourth on the NBA's all-time playoff field goal percentage chart (.574), trailing only James Donaldson (.627), Otis Thorpe (.587), and Mark West (.578). He averaged 5.5 points and 5.8 rebounds in 813 career regular season games, collecting 500-plus rebounds five different seasons and 20-plus boards in a single game on three occasions. He appeared in 139 playoff contests (119 with Lakers), reaching the post-season in 10 of his 14 seasons.

Born February 25, 1958, Kurt attended Santa Clara University (1976-1980), where he earned his B.S. degree in psychology and concluded his four-year career as the then all-time school leader in both points (1,725) and field goals (686). He earned West Coast Athletic Conference Freshman of the Year honors in 1976-77 (15.0 points and 11.6 rebounds) and was named WCAC Player of the Year following his senior campaign.

Kurt and his wife Linda live in Manhattan Beach with their three children, Jesse (10), Jordan (8) and Alexandria Rachel (3).

GENE TORMOHLEN

SCOUT

His name isn't as widely-recognized as Nick Van Exel or Eddie Jones, but it could be argued that Gene Tormohlen's contributions are nearly as vital to the success of the Lakers as are those of their two backcourt stars. If it were not for the Lakers' long-time scout, Van Exel and Jones may have never set foot inside the Great Western Forum wearing the Lakers' purple and gold.

Gene's efficient scouting reports have proven extremely valuable in the success of the Lakers. The club boasts a rich history in acquiring impact players via the collegiate draft, and his diligent work behind the scenes the last 12 years has played a large role in this phenomenon. He attends over 100 collegiate games each season, with his scouting efforts concentrated primarily in the Southern portion of the country.

Starting his 28th season as a scout, "Bumper" has accrued a wealth of basketball experience, beginning with his playing days — which included a stint in the ABA — and his most recent tenure as a collegiate talent expert. He served as an assistant coach/scout with the Atlanta Hawks for eight years and as a scout with the Chicago Bulls for seven seasons before joining the Lakers prior to the 1983-84 campaign.

The Holland, Indiana native was a two-time All-SEC performer at Tennessee, serving as the Vol's captain as a senior. Gene played professionally for the St. Louis Hawks for six years before retiring when the club moved to Atlanta in 1968. He also played with the amateur Cleveland Pipers of the National Industrial Basketball League, leading the team to several AAU titles.

RONNIE LESTER

SCOUT

If a particular college basketball player from Providence to Pfeiffer has even a remote chance of succeeding in the NBA, chances are Ronnie Lester will see him play. And, more than once.

Entering his ninth season as a scout for the Lakers, Ronnie is responsible for evaluating collegiate talent and potential NBA prospects, primarily in the Midwestern part of the country. The Skokie, Illinois native estimates he attends well over 100 college games each winter, which provides him with a good indication of which players have the necessary tools to prosper in the NBA. This season, he'll watch games ranging from those that involve well-established universities to others that feature the smaller NAIA institutions.

As a player, Ronnie earned All-America honors at the University of Iowa, where the Hawkeyes retired his uniform number (12) after he became the school's all-time leading scorer (1,675) and ranked among the all-time leaders in assists (480). He was a first-round NBA draft choice of the Portland Trail Blazers in 1980 (10th overall), but was traded on draft day to his hometown of Chicago, where he began his NBA career with the Bulls. He played with Chicago for four years, enjoying his best season in 1981-82, averaging 11.6 points and 4.8 assists while starting 74 of 75 outings.

Ronnie spent the final two seasons of his injury-plagued, six-year NBA career with the Lakers and was a member of the club's 1985 NBA Championship team. One year after retiring from the NBA, Ronnie joined the Lakers' scouting staff (1987-88).

the NBA, Jerry served as co-captain of the gold-medal winning U.S. Olympic basketball team in Rome in 1960. He was also a member of the victorious U.S. squad in the 1958 Pan American Games.

Born May 28, 1938 in Chelyan, West Virginia, West first garnered national attention as a high school star. As a senior, he led East Bank High School to the state title and became the first prep player in state history to register over 900 points in a single season (32.2 ppg.).

An avid golfer with a three handicap, Jerry once shot a 62 at the Bel Air Country Club, which remains the course record.

Jerry and his wife Karen reside in Bel Air with their sons Ryan and Jonathan. Jerry has three other sons, David, Mark and Michael, from a previous marriage.

WALT HAZZARD

SPECIAL ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT/SCOUT

Thirty years after being selected by the Lakers in the first round of the 1964 NBA Draft, Walt Hazzard returned to the NBA ranks last season, joining the club as a Special Administrative Assistant/Scout. Entering his second year in that capacity, Walt's duties will continue to include scouting and various community relation functions.

Although not exclusively, Walt's scouting expeditions are usually resigned to the west coast, where he serves as both a collegiate and NBA liaison for the Lakers. He does an abundance of advance scouting of upcoming Lakers' opponents, primarily in cities such as Seattle, Oakland and Phoenix.

Hazzard, 53, has established a strong basketball foundation in the Southland, starring for both the Lakers and UCLA as a player, and serving as head coach of the Bruins for four seasons (1984-88). He first generated accolades as a player at Overbrook High School in Philadelphia, where he led Wilt Chamberlain's former school to a pair of city championships and an 89-3 record during his three years as a member of the varsity squad. He was named Philadelphia's Player of the Year as a high school senior (1960), when he also served as the captain for Overbrook's baseball and track teams.

Hazzard elected to travel west to Los Angeles following high school, where he attended Santa Monica College one year (1960-61) before transferring to UCLA prior to the 1961-62 season. His initial season at UCLA proved extremely rewarding (13.2 ppg), as coach John Wooden and the Bruins advanced to the NCAA Final Four for the first time in school history. The playmaking guard earned First Team All-American honors his junior year, leading UCLA to 20 victories while pacing the Bruins in scoring (16.3).

However, it was Walt's senior season on the Westwood campus that will long be remembered. The Bruins compiled an undefeated 30-0 record that year (1963-64) and captured the first NCAA title in UCLA history. Individually, Hazzard enjoyed a splendid season as well, averaging a career-high 18.6 points and earning college basketball's Player of the Year honors.

Seeking a point guard to complement sharpshooter Jerry West in the club's backcourt, the Lakers selected Hazzard with their first round pick in the 1964 NBA Draft (#1 territorial choice). Walt played three seasons in Los Angeles (1964-67), producing his best statistical year during the 1965-66 campaign (13.7 points and 4.9 assists). The Lakers lost Hazzard's rights when he was claimed by Seattle in the 1967 expansion draft, after which he promptly led the Supersonics in scoring (23.9) during their inaugural season (1967-68). He was a member of the NBA All-Star team (Western Conference) for the lone time in 1968.

Walt spent the next three years of his 10-year NBA career with the Atlanta Hawks, where he was traded (from Seattle) in exchange for Lenny Wilkens prior to the 1968-69 campaign. The Wilmington, Delaware native played for three different teams his final three years in the league (Buffalo, Golden State and Seattle) before retiring as a member of the Supersonics following the 1973-74 campaign. He averaged 12.6 points and 4.9 assists in 724 career regular season outings.

Walt entered the coaching ranks in 1980, serving two separate two-year stints at Compton (1980-82) and Champman Colleges (1982-84) in Southern California. He then landed the head coaching job at his alma mater, UCLA (replacing Larry Farmer), on March 26, 1984. Under Hazzard's guidance, the Bruins posted a 77-47 record (.621) during his four-year tenure at the school, highlighted by a 25-7 mark in 1986-87 when he earned Pac-10 Coach of the Year honors.

Born April 15, 1942, Walt and his wife Jaleesa live in Los Angeles. They are the parents of four adult children — Yakub, Jalal, Khalil and Rasheed.

of the Lakers late in the 1993-94 campaign. Assuming those duties on March 27, 1994, he guided the Lakers during the final 16 games of the season (5-11).

Born August 14, 1959 in Lansing, Michigan, Johnson received the nickname "Magic" from a Lansing sportswriter (Fred Stabley, Jr.) following a 36-point, 18-rebound, 16-assist performance for Everett High School, which he led to a state championship in 1977.

While Earvin may be known best for his prowess on the basketball court, he is also an entrepreneur with multi-faceted business interests. His latest venture, Johnson Development Corporation, develops commercial property in long neglected minority urban and suburban neighborhoods. This past summer, Johnson celebrated two special grand openings. First, he and partner Sony Entertainment opened the inaugural Magic Johnson Theatre, a 12-screen, state-of-the art multiplex theatre in the Baldwin Hills-Crenshaw district of Los Angeles, with future plans calling for multiplexes in Atlanta, Washington D.C., Chicago and New York. Secondly, Magic's Westland Plaza, a 235,000 square foot shopping center, opened in Las Vegas.

Earvin, his wife Cookie, son Earvin III (3) and daughter Elisa reside in Beverly Hills. His son Andre (15) lives in Lansing, Michigan.

TRAINER

Although Del Harris and his coaching staff spend countless hours preparing the team for each game, the Lakers would be hard-pressed to find an individual who dedicates more valuable time making certain the athletes are ready to "answer the bell" each and every night than trainer Gary Vitti. Certainly, it's no easy chore attempting to maintain the health of 12 or more players during a grueling NBA season, but Gary has nonetheless earned a reputation as one of the best in the business the last 11 years.

Vitti, who begins his 12th season as the Lakers' trainer in 1995-96, monitors the health of the club throughout the season using state-of-the-art methods in conditioning, dieting, stretching, and testing. Having completed over a decade of service with the club, Gary has accrued more seniority with the team than all but one trainer in club history (Frank O'Neill).

The 41-year old native of Stamford, Connecticut is responsible for the care, prevention, and treatment of injuries to Laker players, assuring the coaching staff that each athlete is in the best possible condition when called upon to perform. And, his job typically continues when basketball season ends, as he spends a portion of his summer working with players on their strength and various other elements of their health during the off-season.

Gary earned his B.S. degree from Southern Connecticut State in 1976 and his M.S. degree in Sports Medicine from the University of Utah in 1982.

In addition to studying at the University of Utah, he spent two years as a trainer and teacher at the University, in addition to working as an assistant trainer with the NBA's Utah Jazz (1981-1982). Following his stint with the Jazz, Gary then served as head athletic trainer and adjunct assistant professor at the University of Portland for two years before joining the Lakers prior to the 1984-85 campaign. He was named the National Basketball Association's Trainer of the Year in 1991 by the NBA's Trainers Association, partially due to his efforts in creating the annual NBATA Superstar Sports Auction.

Having long been considered one of the top trainers in the country, Gary's services are well in demand. Complementing his NBA duties, he has also served as lead trainer for numerous other sporting events since 1984, including Los Angeles Strings Tennis, the Los Angeles Summer Pro League and several summer basketball camps throughout the country. Additionally, he is a frequent visitor on the lecture tour, sharing his wisdom at a number of athletic seminars and workshops each year. This past summer, Gary traveled to the Philippines, where he spoke at a Coaches/Sports Medicine Clinic. The seminar was by invitation only and included some of the top coaches, trainers, doctors and physical therapists in the world.

Gary has also supervised physiological profile studies published in English and Japanese and has written a monthly column for "Sports Medicine Digest." He also writes a sports medicine column for the Los Angeles Times syndicate and produced a conditioning video during the summer of 1992 ("Training for Excellence").

Gary lives in Manhattan Beach with his two daughters, Rachel and Emilia, and can be found rolling down PCH on his Harley when his busy schedule permits.

CHICK HEARN

PLAY-BY-PLAY BROADCASTER

The entire baseball community — and the sports world in general — was captivated last summer as Baltimore Orioles' shortstop Cal Ripken approached the all-time major league record of 2,130 consecutive games played, pursuing Lou Gehrig's once-untouchable record.

Having jumped that hurdle, the 14-year major league veteran is now only a mere 600 games shy of equaling Chick Hearn's invincible mark.

Hearn, the lone play-by-play man in Los Angeles Lakers history, enters his 36th season of providing NBA fans with his colorful and entertaining "words-eye-view" boasting a consecutive game streak which only the likes of Ripken and Gehrig could truly appreciate. Chick, still chirping enthusiastically after all these years, begins the 1995-96 campaign with a string of 2,784 consecutive Laker broadcasts (regular season and playoffs), having not missed a game since November 20, 1965. This unfathomable streak will reach the 30-year plateau two weeks into the 1995-96 season, and Chick is scheduled to announce his 2,800th consecutive contest December 3 against Indiana.

To put this in perspective, only one current Lakers player — Sedale Threatt — was born the last time Chick missed a game, and six-year old Magic Johnson was entering first grade in Lansing, Michigan. Since then, the Jell-O has jiggled every night.

Chick reached an amazing milestone on March 13, 1992, broadcasting his 2,500th consecutive game at Cleveland, a feat he considers to be the highlight of a career filled with bright moments. Having been blessed with good health, the Aurora, Illinois native has missed only two games since assuming his present position in 1961, one due to a flight cancellation (inclement weather), and the other as a result of another assignment. However, it hasn't been easy. In March of 1994, he broadcast a game only hours after regaining his voice from a bout with laryngitis, and last May (5/12/95), he announced the first half of the Lakers/Spurs playoff game before retiring for the night with another severe case of laryngitis.

Such dedication and excellence has perched Chick at the pinnacle of his profession. "Golden Throat", who takes tremendous pride in his diligent pre-game preparation, earned the ultimate award for an announcer on May 9, 1991, when he was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame, becoming only the third Radio/TV personality to receive such an honor.

It was an honor most certainly deserved for a man who exhibits as much enthusiasm and vibrance today as he did when he broadcast his initial Lakers' game during the 1961 playoffs (the club did not broadcast any regular season games during their first season in Los Angeles).

Born Francis Dayle Hearn, Chick grew up in Aurora, Illinois and attended Bradley University. He was given the nickname "Chick" when, as an AAU basketball player, he was handed a box of sneakers only to be surprised to find a chicken inside. Three years ago, Chick's hometown saluted their local hero for his outstanding accomplishments during a festive dinner, with the mayor of Aurora proclaiming June 3rd as "Chick Hearn Day" in the Illinois city from that point forward.

Chick first landed in Los Angeles in 1956. He broadcast USC football and basketball, and later did a radio sports show that earned him two Emmy Awards. He joined the Lakers shortly thereafter, personally witnessing the careers of Jerry West, Magic Johnson and, of course, six NBA championships.

Although best-known for his work with the Lakers, Chick has broadcast an assortment of sporting events, including NCAA and NFL football, UNLV basketball, PGA golf tournaments, the first Ali-Frazier fight, the Rose Bowl and professional tennis. Overall, his voice has graced the airwaves for a total of 49 years.

Nationally known and respected, Chick spent part of the summer of 1992 providing the fans of North America with his unique commentary, broadcasting games on NBC's Triplecast for the gold-medal winning United States' Olympic basketball team in Barcelona, Spain. Last ummer, he was chosen to broadcast the one-on-one game between Hakeem Olajuwon and Shaquille O'Neal. And, shortly after the beginning of the 1995-96 season, Chick's unparalleled expertise will be further recognized when he is inducted into the Broadcasters Hall of Fame in late November.

Chick's near-non-stop work schedule also includes numerous commercials and movie appearances, while his quick wit makes him a popular after-dinner speaker. He has received numerous accolades for his outstanding work, including the Golden Mike Award and earning National Sportscaster of the Year honors on two occasions. He was the recipient of the 1994 Retinitis Pigmentosa Vision Award, presented annually to those individuals whose creative developments in a certain industry (Television) have benefited mankind.

Other notable career highlights have ranged from "Chick Hearn Night", which the team held in his honor on March 28, 1981, to the fall day in 1986 when a star baring his name was installed on Hollywood Boulevard's "Walk of Fame."

Chick and his wife Marge live in Encino.

STU LANTZ

COLOR COMMENTATOR

During his eight-year NBA playing career, Stu Lantz became quite familiar with change and, hence, adapted well to different circumstances and new environments. The Lakers' color commentator played in a total of five cities during this period — San Diego, Houston, Detroit, New Orleans and Los Angeles — and was always expecting the unexpected.

His previous training proved beneficial on May 12 last season, when Stu was thrust into yet more unfamiliar territory — play-by-play announcing — at halftime of Game #3 of the Western Conference Semifinals. With Chick Hearn sidelined (laryngitis) for the first time since his sidekick was a freshman in college (1965), Stu replaced the legendary announcer for the final 24 minutes and performed just as he had during his musical chairs-like playing career — splendidly and without a hitch.

This season, Lantz, beginning his ninth year in the broadcast booth with the Lakers, will ease back into his customary position alongside the rapid-fire delivery of Hearn. He provides each broadcast with his expert analysis and unique insight, garnered through his 16-plus years associated with the NBA. Additionally, his call-in talk show, which immediately follows each home game, has become increasingly popular and will continue this season.

Having made tremendous strides in the business, Stu played a major part in the Lakers' pre-game show last season — "Laker Time" — which won an Emmy for the best 1994 sports series in Los Angeles. He also dabbles in various other functions, representing the Lakers as a guest speaker at several different events annually.

Following an example established by Hearn and his 2,784 game streak, Stu has amassed a string of his own, having partaken in 742 consecutive broadcasts (including playoffs) since his appointment prior to the 1987-88 campaign. At the conclusion of last season, Stu (eight years) surpassed Lynn Shackelford (seven years) as the color commentator who has been perched in Chick's nest the longest.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska (1968), Stu earned All-Big Eight Conference honors in basketball on two occasions. The Cornhuskers officially retired his uniform number (22) on October 17, 1989, during halftime ceremonies of a Lakers' preseason game in Lincoln.

Born July 13, 1946 in Uniontown, Pennsylvania, Stu was originally a third round NBA draft choice of the San Diego Rockets in 1968 (23rd overall). He spent his first three seasons in San Diego, where he enjoyed his finest pro campaign in 1970-71, averaging career-high figures in both scoring (20.6) and rebounding (5.0). Lantz, who eclipsed .800 shooting from the charity stripe each of his final six seasons in the NBA and ranked sixth overall in the league in free throw percentage during the 1971-72 campaign (.838), also played for the Houston Rockets (1971-72), Detroit Pistons (1972-74), and New Orleans Jazz (1974) prior to being traded to the Lakers in December of 1974. Stu played less than two seasons in Los Angeles before announcing his retirement following the 1976-77 campaign due to a back injury.

Immediately following his playing career, he embarked on a broadcasting career, serving as a commentator for the San Diego Clippers, San Diego State University, UNLV and CBS. Stu has also worked as color commentator on the NBA Radio Network.

Each summer, Stu works as an instructor at Pete Newell's renowned Big-Man's Camp in Hawaii, and dedicates time at a shooting camp in the San Diego area. He enjoys playing tennis and has a strong admiration for chocolate, ice cream, cakes and pies.

Stu and his wife Linda live in San Diego and are the proud parents of three children, Todd, Kristin, and Shane.

1994-95 REVIEW

OCTOBER 7 –

The Lakers, under the direction of recently appointed head coach Del Harris, open training camp at the University of Hawaii in Honolulu. Harris and his staff welcome a total of 16 players to camp, including four rookies (Eddie Jones, Anthony Miller, Trevor Ruffin, Kendrick Warren).

OCTOBER 13 –

The Lakers trade guard/forward Doug Christie to the New York Knicks in exchange for two future second round draft choices (1997 and 1998). Christie, who was acquired in a 1993 trade with the Seattle Supersonics (Sam Perkins), had not participated in any training camp drills following off-season ankle surgery.

OCTOBER 14 –

The Lakers begin their eight-game preseason schedule in promising fashion, crowning the Sacramento Kings, 110-103, at the Blaisdell Center in Honolulu. Cedric Ceballos, acquired in an off-season trade with the Phoenix Suns, tallies a game-high 24 points for the victorious Lakers.

OCTOBER 15 –

Nick Van Exel leads six Los Angeles players in double figures with a game-high 25 points, lifting the Lakers to their second consecutive preseason triumph, 125-120, over the Sacramento Kings. Rookie Eddie Jones, who adds 21 points in a reserve role, converts a perfect 15-of-15 attempts from the charity stripe.

OCTOBER 18 –

Returning to the mainland following a nine-day stay in Hawaii, the Lakers drown the Los Angeles Clippers, 120-104, at the Pond in Anaheim. Cedric Ceballos (22) and Anthony Peeler (20) combine for 42 points for the Lakers, who sprint out to a 32-16 lead after one quarter and never look back in recording their third straight preseason win.

OCTOBER 19 –

Following three consecutive victories to begin the preseason, the Lakers suffer their first setback, falling to the Seattle Supersonics, 131-113, at the San Diego Sports Arena. The victorious Supersonics shoot a sizzling .592 from the floor (45-of-76) and receive a game-high 31 points from Shawn Kemp.

OCTOBER 21 –

Seven-time All-Star James Worthy appears in what proves to be his final game as an NBA player during Los Angeles' 125-100 loss to the Orlando Magic in first round action of the GTE Everything Pages Shootout at the GW Forum. Worthy, who leaves immediately following the game to attend the funeral of his mother in North Carolina, averaged 7.0 points and 1.6 rebounds in five preseason outings (11.4 minutes).

OCTOBER 25 –

George Lynch, who scores a game-high 26 points - including 17 in the first half- drills a 15-foot jumper with 22 seconds remaining to lift the Lakers to a 114-113 come-from-behind victory over the Seattle Supersonics in Vancouver. Los Angeles, which trails 14-2 at the outset, scores 42 points in a 12 minute span late in the first half to seize the lead at halftime.

OCTOBER 27 –

Despite concluding the preseason with a 99-88 setback at the hands of the Jazz in Ogden, Utah, the Lakers post a 5-3 record overall, recording a break-even or better record in preseason play for the 11th straight season. Cedric Ceballos, who nets a team-leading 26 points, averages a team-high 19.5 points and 7.5 rebounds during the preseason.

NOVEMBER 1 –

The Lakers waive rookie free agent Kendrick Warren, who averaged 1.5 points in four preseason outings.

NOVEMBER 3 –

The Lakers reduce their active roster to the opening night 12-man limit, waiving rookie free agent Trevor Ruffin and placing forward James Worthy on the injured list (patella tendinitis/left knee). Ruffin averaged 6.2 points in six preseason outings.

NOVEMBER 4 –

The Lakers, for the 31st time in 35 years since moving to Los Angeles, open a new NBA campaign on the road, dealing the Detroit Pistons a 115-98 loss at the Palace of Auburn Hills. Nick Van Exel tallies an NBA opening-night high 35 points to pace the Lakers, who convert a season-high 35 free throws (35-of-40).

NOVEMBER 5 –

Reserve Marty Conlon intercepts a Nick Van Exel pass and converts two-game winning free throws with 11.8 seconds remaining, propelling the Bucks to a 97-96 victory over the Lakers in Milwaukee. Los Angeles, suffering its eighth loss in nine visits to Milwaukee, commits four crucial turnovers in the final two minutes.

NOVEMBER 8 –

The Lakers squander a season-high 20 point lead and suffer their second straight defeat, losing to the Knicks, 117-113, in New York. Los Angeles, which owns a 47-27 advantage with 7:44 left in the second quarter, surrenders an opponent's season-high 43 points in the decisive third period (43-33).

NOVEMBER 9 –

Rookie Eddie Jones tallies a career-high 31 points, helping the Lakers conclude a season-opening four-game trip (2-2) with their largest road victory of the campaign, a 122-99 decision over the Timberwolves in Minneapolis. The victory is Los Angeles' sixth consecutive at the Target Center.

NOVEMBER 10 –

Veteran forward James Worthy, who was a member of three NBA championship teams with the Lakers and a seven-time All-Star, announces his retirement. Worthy averaged 17.6 points and 5.1 rebounds during his 12-year career and won Most Valuable Player honors of the 1988 NBA Finals.

NOVEMBER 11 –

The Lakers overcome an 18-point fourth quarter deficit in their home opener, but succumb to the Denver Nuggets, 124-117, in overtime. Dikembe Mutombo collects 26 rebounds for the Nuggets, which represents a season-high for a Los Angeles foe. The Nuggets, who outrebound the Lakers 67-38, establish an NBA season-high in total boards (67). Denver prevails despite committing an opponent's season-high 32 turnovers.

NOVEMBER 12 –

The cold-shooting Lakers establish a season-low field goal percentage (.346) during a 121-99 loss against the Warriors in Oakland. Golden State, which sprints to a 64-47 lead at halftime, has three players (Chris Gatling 12, Rony Seikaly 12, David Wood 10) collect double figures in rebounds. Tony Smith converts a club record five three-pointers in one quarter (fourth) for the Lakers.

NOVEMBER 15 –

Spearheaded by a 31-12 fourth quarter onslaught, the Lakers erase a nine-point deficit after three periods (80-71) and hand the winless Clippers their sixth consecutive defeat, 102-92, at the Sports Arena. The Lakers, who eclipse .500 shooting from the floor for the initial time this season (.553), receive 24 points each from Cedric Ceballos and Vlade Divac. Pig Miller receives his first — and only — starting assignment of the season.

NOVEMBER 18 –

Tony Smith sinks a game-winning three-pointer as the final buzzer sounds, lifting the Lakers to an 82-80 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers at the GW Forum. The Lakers, who conclude the season with 12 wins by three points or less, record their first such triumph of the season and limit the Cavaliers to an opponent's season-low point total.

NOVEMBER 23 –

Vlade Divac tallies a team-leading 27 points — one of twenty-six 20-point outings this season — and the Lakers defeat the Dallas Mavericks, 118-106, at the GW Forum. Antonio Harvey, who receives the first of eight starting assignments during the campaign, scores 16 points, collects six rebounds and has three blocked shots. Harvey starts in place of Elden Campbell, who attends a funeral in Georgia.

NOVEMBER 25 –

The Lakers stage another fourth quarter comeback and begin a four-game eastern road excursion with a 92-87 come-from-behind victory over the Hawks in Atlanta. Los Angeles, trailing by seven points with 6:26 remaining (80-73), outscores Atlanta 19-7 down the stretch and records its third consecutive victory. Vlade Divac paces the club in scoring (15), rebounding (16) and assists (6).

NOVEMBER 26 –

Nick Van Exel (22 points/13 assists), Cedric Ceballos (18 points/14 rebounds) and Vlade Divac (11 points/12 rebounds) each record double-doubles, helping the Lakers shoot down the Bullets for their fourth consecutive win, 113-96, in Landover. The victory enables Los Angeles to move two games above the .500 mark (7-5) for the first time since the 1992-93 campaign.

NOVEMBER 29 –

Trailing by 16 points (100-84) with 8:06 remaining in the fourth quarter, the surging Lakers blitz the Nets with 21-4 run over the next six minutes and eventually prevail, 129-120, in double overtime at the Meadowlands. Cedric Ceballos, who equals a franchise record with nine field goals in the first quarter, scores a game-high 34 points to spark the Lakers to their fifth consecutive victory. Los Angeles establishes season-high figures in points (129), field goals made (58) and field goals attempted (120). Nick Van Exel dishes out a team-leading 13 assists for the Lakers, including a team season-high 12 in the second half.

DECEMBER 2 –

Cedric Ceballos tallies a game-high 25 points and collects a career-high 16 rebounds, leading the Lakers to a 107-89 win over the Houston Rockets at the GW Forum. The Lakers match their largest lead of the season in the third quarter (28 points) and roll to their sixth win in seven games.

DECEMBER 6 –

Aided by three players with 10 or more rebounds, the Lakers, who sprint to a 36-19 first quarter lead, defeat the Golden State Warriors, 113-101, at the GW Forum. Los Angeles collects a season-high 61 rebounds overall, including 14 from Vlade Divac (team season-high 10 offensive), 13 from Elden Campbell and 12 from Cedric Ceballos. The Lakers, who win the battle of the boards 61-42, eventually conclude the season with a 22-6 mark when outrebounding their opponents.

DECEMBER 10 –

One night after suffering a 25-point loss to the Clippers at home (109-84), the Lakers begin a four-game road trip with an impressive 120-113 victory over the Jazz in Salt Lake City. Sedale Threatt, starting in place of the injured Nick Van Exel (sprained left ankle), scores a season-high 38 points, sinking 13-of-19 field goals. Threatt becomes one of six Los Angeles players to score 30 or more points during the regular season.

DECEMBER 13 –

The Lakers, who equal an NBA record with 11 steals in the first quarter, are spurred by a balanced scoring attack (all five starters in double figures) during a 115-108 decision over the Mavericks in Dallas. Los Angeles records an NBA season-high 20 steals overall, highlighted by a career-high-tying six by Eddie Jones. Nick Van Exel establishes a single game club record with eight three-pointers (8-of-16) en route to a game-high 35 points.

DECEMBER 15 –

The Lakers record their third consecutive road win and seventh in the last eight outings, defusing the World Champion Rockets, 97-94, in Houston. Cedric Ceballos tallies a team-leading 36 points for the Lakers, who force the Rockets into a .398 field goal percentage (35-of-88).

DECEMBER 20 –

Cedric Ceballos becomes the first Los Angeles player to reach the 50 point plateau in a regular season game since Gail Goodrich on March 28, 1975, reaching the half century mark during the Lakers' 108-95 triumph over the Minnesota Timberwolves at the GW Forum (21-31 FGs, 3-5 3FGs, 5-9 FTs). Ceballos, who also becomes the seventh player in club history to score 50 points in a regular season contest, tallies a team season-high 29 points in the second half and a team season-best 18 points in the fourth quarter. The Lakers shoot a season-high .587 from the floor (44-of-75).

DECEMBER 23 –

Rookie Eddie Jones tallies a game-high 27 points and Vlade Divac records a career-high eight blocked shots, lifting the Lakers to a 100-89 win over the Sacramento Kings at the GW Forum. Divac's eight rejections mark the most for a Los Angeles player since December 2, 1984 (Kareem Abdul-Jabbar 8). The Lakers, who lead the NBA in blocked shots for the majority of the season, amass a total of 14 rejections overall.

DECEMBER 27 –

Cedric Ceballos, who averaged 35.5 points, 8.5 rebounds and shot .569 from the floor (29-of-51) in two games during the previous week, is named the NBA's Player of the Week for the period ending December 25. Ceballos becomes the first Los Angeles player to receive this award since Magic Johnson in April of 1991.

DECEMBER 29 –

Elden Campbell records one of 11 double-doubles on the season, registering 28 points, grabbing 10 rebounds and blocking a career-high-tying six shots during the Lakers' narrow 96-95 victory over the Seattle Supersonics at the GW Forum. Campbell and Cedric Ceballos (35) combine for 63 of Los Angeles' 96 points overall.

DECEMBER 30 –

The Lakers snap Phoenix's franchise record 25-game homecourt winning streak, thwarting the Suns, 127-112, at America West Arena. Cedric Ceballos, playing his first game in the Valley of the Sun since being traded to the Lakers, scorches his ex-teammates for a game-high 37 points. Nick Van Exel hands out a game-high 16 assists for the Lakers, who convert 13-of-24 three-pointers. Dan Majerle tallies an opponent's reserve season-high 31 points off the bench for the Suns. This marks the final game of the season in which the Lakers have their full complement of players healthy for a game.

JANUARY 3 –

Cedric Ceballos, who averaged 27.8 points and 9.0 rebounds in 13 December contests, is named the NBA's Player of the Month for December. Ceballos tallied 35 or more points on four occasions in December, shot .532 from the floor (133-of-250) and led the Lakers to a 9-4 record. He becomes the first Los Angeles player to capture Player of the Month honors since Magic Johnson in February of 1990.

JANUARY 3 –

The Lakers begin the New Year on a winning note, rallying from a 13-point second quarter deficit to defeat the Detroit Pistons, 105-96, at the GW Forum. Nick Van Exel, who plays a career-high 48 minutes in the absence of Sedale Threatt, tallies 21 points and dishes out nine assists for the Lakers, who outscore the Pistons, 57-36, in the second half. Threatt misses the first of 13 consecutive contests due to a stress fracture in his right foot. The Lakers establish a new single-game club record-low in field goals attempted (64).

JANUARY 6 –

Minus the services of leading scorer Cedric Ceballos (back spasms), the Lakers overcome a double figure deficit for the second consecutive game, dealing the Milwaukee Bucks a 106-98 loss at the GW Forum, Los Angeles' 16th win in the last 20 games. Eddie Jones (26) and Nick Van Exel (23) score a combined 49 points for the victorious Lakers, who place five players in double figures.

JANUARY 8 –

Vlade Divac registers the third triple-double of his career (lone one of season), recording 21 points, 11 rebounds and 10 assists as the streaking Lakers turn down the Heat, 122-105, at the GW Forum. Los Angeles, winning its fifth consecutive game, leads by as many as 27 points in the third quarter (85-58) and accumulates a season-high 38 assists. The victory improves the Lakers' record to 20-9.

JANUARY 9 –

The Lakers suffer their worst loss in Los Angeles franchise history, falling to the Trailblazers, 129-83, in Portland (46 points). Trailing 65-54 at intermission, the Lakers score a combined 29 points in the third (15) and fourth quarters (14), resulting in the club's lowest half of the season. Earlier in the day, the Lakers place guard Sedale Threatt on the injured list (stress fracture/right foot).

JANUARY 10 –

The Lakers sign 12-year veteran free agent guard Lester Conner to a 10-day contract.

JANUARY 11 –

Despite a stunning season-high 20-0 scoring run in the second half, the Lakers are burned by the Suns, 118-108, at the GW Forum. Los Angeles, trailing 86-66 with 2:04 remaining in the third period, erases the entire deficit during the scoring spree, highlighted by Nick Van Exel's trio of three-pointers. Van Exel tallies a game-high 35 points for the Lakers, sinking 7-of-11 treys.

JANUARY 16 –

For the second time this season, the Lakers utilize an impressive fourth quarter rally (37-21) to defeat the Clippers, 96-88, at the GW Forum. Trailing 77-65 with 9:25 left in the contest, the Lakers respond with a decisive 23-4 run over the next six minutes to gain control. Nick Van Exel tallies a game-high 24 points for the Lakers, including 13 in the final period. The victorious Lakers record a season-high 15 blocked shots, one short of the NBA season-high.

JANUARY 18 –

Tony Smith's potential game-winning 18-foot jumper with two seconds remaining falls short, enabling the Pacers to secure a 106-105 victory over the Lakers in Indianapolis. The Lakers, who trail by 11 points with 8:39 left in the game, seize a short-lived 105-104 lead on Nick Van Exel's three-pointer, but have their brief two-game winning streak snapped when Derrick McKey converts the winning basket with 39 seconds remaining.

JANUARY 20 –

Nick Van Exel sinks a desperation three-pointer as the final buzzer sounds, propelling the Lakers to a dramatic 120-118 win over the Celtics in Boston. Van Exel tallies 29 points and hands out 10 assists for the Lakers, who trail 118-117 prior to the last second heroics. Van Exel, Cedric Ceballos (31) and Elden Campbell (30) score a combined 90 points for the Lakers. The game marks the final meeting between the two long-time rivals at historic Boston Garden.

JANUARY 20 –

The Lakers sign free agent guard Danny Young to a 10-day contract.

JANUARY 21 –

The Sixers spoil the return of Lakers' rookie Eddie Jones to Philadelphia, overcoming a 16-point fourth quarter deficit to hand Los Angeles a heartbreaking 117-113 loss in overtime at the Spectrum. Dana Barros tallies a career-high 41 points for the Sixers, who allow the Lakers only three free throws in the overtime session. Barros converts an all-time single-game opponent's record seven three-pointers (7-11).

JANUARY 23 –

The Lakers equal last season's win total on the road (12) in only their 21st road outing, stinging the Hornets, 108-102, in Charlotte. The victory snaps the Hornets' franchise record 13-game home court winning streak. Nick Van Exel and Cedric Ceballos each score a team-leading 26 points for Los Angeles, which ended the 1993-94 campaign with a 12-29 mark away from home.

JANUARY 25 –

After squandering a 13-point third quarter advantage (88-75), the Lakers recover to defeat New Jersey Nets, 120-116, in overtime at the GW Forum. Cedric Ceballos tallies a game-high 33 points for the Lakers, who prevail despite being outrebounded, 65-46. Four New Jersey players - Derrick Coleman (17), Jayson Williams (13), Armon Gilliam (12) and Chris Morris (10) - collect double figures in rebounds for the Nets, a season-high for a Los Angeles opponent.

JANUARY 28 –

Nick Van Exel leads a late fourth quarter rally with eight consecutive points, helping the Lakers erase an eight-point deficit with two minutes remaining (111-103) and secure a thrilling 128-121 come-from-behind overtime victory over the Supersonics in Tacoma. Los Angeles outscores Seattle 17-2 at the conclusion of the fourth period and into overtime (Van Exel 13 points), transposing a 111-103 deficit into a 120-113 advantage with 2:09 left in the extra session. The win snaps Los Angeles' 10 game road losing streak against the Supersonics.

JANUARY 31 –

Sedale Threatt, sidelined the last 13 games due to a stress fracture in his right foot (Lakers 9-4), is activated. Sam Bowie, who suffered a sprained right thumb during the club's previous game at Seattle, is placed on the injured list. Kurt Rambis, who began the season as a Special Assistant Coach with the Lakers, signs a 10-day contract.

FEBRUARY 1 –

Starting in place of the injured Elden Campbell, Antonio Harvey responds with a career-high 18 points during the Lakers' 118-109 loss in Phoenix. Campbell misses the first of five consecutive games due to a sprained left ankle for the Lakers, who conclude the first half of the 1994-95 campaign with a 26-15 record.

FEBRUARY 3 –

The Lakers equal an all-time single-game Los Angeles record-low in points during a costly 88-74 setback at the hands of the Denver Nuggets at the GW Forum. The Lakers, who register as many as 20 points in only one quarter (20 in fourth), shoot .365 from the floor (31-of-85) and establish a season-low in free throws attempted (9). Cedric Ceballos, the team's leading scorer, suffers a torn ligament in his right thumb and subsequently misses the next 22 games.

FEBRUARY 4 –

Rookie Eddie Jones tallies a game-high 30 points and Anthony Peeler contributes a season-high-tying 27 points in a reserve role, propelling the shorthanded Lakers to a 121-118 victory over the Clippers at the Sports Arena. The Lakers play without starting forwards Elden Campbell (sprained left ankle) and Cedric Ceballos (injured thumb).

FEBRUARY 8 –

Playing their final game prior to the NBA's annual All-Star Weekend, the Lakers record their third consecutive win, defeating the San Antonio Spurs, 115-99, for the lone time this season. Vlade Divac enjoys a solid all-around performance, recording 25 points, a game-high 15 rebounds, eight assists and six blocked shots. The Lakers enter the All-Star break with a 29-16 record.

FEBRUARY 9 –

Cedric Ceballos, who suffered a torn ligament in his right thumb on February 3 vs. Denver, undergoes surgery at Centinela Hospital Medical Center and will remain sidelined until March 22 (22 games).

FEBRUARY 11 –

Rookie Eddie Jones, the Lakers' first round draft choice from Temple (10th overall), captures Most Valuable Player honors of the Schick Rookie Game during All-Star Saturday in Phoenix. Jones notches a game-high 25 points, six steals and four rebounds. Antonio Harvey also participates in the Gatorade Slam Dunk Contest.

FEBRUARY 12 –

Cedric Ceballos, who is named as a reserve member of the Western Conference All-Star team, is unable to participate in the contest after undergoing surgery to repair a torn ligament in his right thumb on February 9. Ceballos, averaging 22.0 points and 8.6 rebounds, becomes the first Los Angeles player since Magic Johnson and James Worthy in 1992 to earn an All-Star Game invitation.

FEBRUARY 13 –

The Lakers place forward Cedric Ceballos on the injured list (torn ligament/ right thumb) and sign forward Kurt Rambis to a second 10-day contract.

FEBRUARY 15 –

The Lakers, behind a balanced scoring attack that features five players in double figures, record their third victory in as many outings this season against the Seattle Supersonics, handing the Pacific Division champions a 102-96 loss at the GW Forum. The Sonics entered the game having won a franchise record 10 consecutive road contests, last suffering a loss against the Lakers in Los Angeles on December 29. The Lakers attempt a season-high 45 free throws, including a career-high 14 by Elden Campbell.

FEBRUARY 15 –

Center Sam Bowie, who had missed the last six games due to a sprained right thumb, is activated.

FEBRUARY 19 –

Reserve Anthony Peeler, afforded increased playing time in place of the injured Eddie Jones, scores 21 points in 36 minutes to pace the Lakers to a 93-83 come-from-behind win over the Portland Trailblazers at the GW Forum. Los Angeles outscores Portland, 27-11, in the final quarter, limiting the Trailblazers to an opponent's season-low for the period. Jones suffers a sprained right shoulder in the second quarter and joins Los Angeles' growing list of wounded.

FEBRUARY 20 –

Nick Van Exel tallies a career-high 40 points (12-19 FGs, 7-9 3FGs, 9-10 FTs) to lead the injury-plagued Lakers to a 108-105 triumph over the Supersonics in Tacoma. Van Exel, who had netted a career-best 35 points three times earlier this season, establishes a new single-season club record in three-pointers (124). With the win, Los Angeles becomes the first team since the 1992 Portland Trailblazers to defeat the Supersonics four times in a single season.

FEBRUARY 22 –

Led by the all-around play of Vlade Divac (19 points, 12 rebounds, eight assists, five steals, five blocked shots), the Lakers record their third consecutive victory, a 112-100 decision over the Philadelphia 76ers at the GW Forum (Lakers 11th straight win over the Sixers in Los Angeles). The Lakers, who shoot .500 from the floor (47-of-94), improve to 13-0 when posting a .500-plus field goal percentage. Los Angeles registers a season-high 40 points in the first quarter (high for any quarter) and places a season-high seven players in double figures.

FEBRUARY 22 –

The Lakers place rookie guard Eddie Jones on the injured list and sign forward Lloyd Daniels to a 10-day contract. Jones suffered a sprained right shoulder February 19 vs. Portland and will subsequently miss the next 18 games (Lakers 10-8). Daniels, who began the season with the Philadelphia 76ers, had played most recently with the CBA's Fort Wayne Fury.

FEBRUARY 24 –

Vlade Divac records the third 20/20 performance of his career, scoring 25 points and collecting a season-high 24 rebounds during Los Angeles' 95-93 verdict over the Charlotte Hornets in overtime at the GW Forum. However, Elden Campbell provides the heroics, sinking a game-winning baseline jumper with 2.5 seconds remaining, enabling the Lakers to overcome a five-point deficit with two minutes remaining in the extra session. The win is Los Angeles' fourth consecutive and eighth in the last nine games, and enables the Lakers (34-17) to surpass last season's win total (33).

FEBRUARY 25 –

Vlade Divac becomes the first Los Angeles player since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in December of 1975 to register back-to-back 20/20 outings, registering 20 points and 20 rebounds during an 83-81 loss to the Clippers at the Sports Arena.

FEBRUARY 28 –

Continuing to be hampered with injuries, the Lakers place forward George Lynch on the injured list and sign free agent forward Randolph Keys. Lynch, suffering from a stress fracture in his right foot, will remain sidelined 23 games and miss the first contests of his collegiate or professional career due to injury. Keys joins Los Angeles from the CBA's Quad City Thunder.

MARCH 3 –

The Lakers, who equal a single-season club record with their seventh overtime contest (5-2), hand the Sacramento Kings a 109-104 loss in double OT at the GW Forum. Pig Miller sparks the victorious Lakers, posting career-high numbers in points (18) and rebounds (15). Miller's 15 boards represent the most rebounds for a Los Angeles reserve since November 1, 1991 (A.C. Green 16 @ Houston). Nick Van Exel plays a team season-high and career-high 56 minutes for the Lakers, while Bobby Hurley dishes out an opponent's season-high 17 assists for the Kings.

MARCH 5 –

Nick Van Exel hands out a career-high 17 assists and Vlade Divac adds a season-high 30 points, 14 rebounds, seven assists, three steals and four blocked shots, lifting the Lakers to a narrow 105-102 win over the Minnesota Timberwolves at the GW Forum. Minnesota erases an 11-point Los Angeles lead with 4:54 remaining, but Divac tallies three points during a decisive game-ending 4-0 Los Angeles run.

MARCH 9 –

Shaquille O'Neal tallies an opponent's season-high 46 points, helping the Magic stave off a late Los Angeles rally during a 114-110 win in Orlando. The Lakers, who trail by 16 points at the outset of the fourth quarter (92-76), pull to within two (112-110) with 27 seconds remaining before O'Neal ices the game with a pair of free throws. The Lakers play without injured starters Elden Campbell, Cedric Ceballos and Eddie Jones.

MARCH 10 –

Prior to succumbing to the Timberwolves, 109-103 in Minneapolis, the Lakers sign forward Randolph Keys to a second 10-day contract.

MARCH 11 –

The Lakers, who outscore the Bulls 35-18 in the final 12 minutes, overcome a 14-point deficit entering the fourth quarter (87-73) and post their fourth straight win in Chicago, 108-105. Anthony Peeler nets a game-high 22 points for the Lakers, his fifth consecutive 20-plus point outing. Nick Van Exel misses his second game of the season (back spasms).

MARCH 13 –

Rookie Pig Miller records his third double-double in seven games (17 points/11 rebounds) and Reggie Miller's potential game-winning three-pointer at the final buzzer falls short, allowing the Lakers to capture a 93-91 come-from-behind victory over the Indiana Pacers at the GW Forum. Los Angeles erases a 17-point first quarter deficit (28-11), equalling the club's largest comeback of the season.

MARCH 14 –

The Lakers sign CBA products Lloyd Daniels and Randolph Keys to contracts for the remainder of the season.

MARCH 19 –

Nick Van Exel (35), Anthony Peeler (25) and Vlade Divac (24) score a combined 84 points for the victorious Lakers during a 121-116 win over the Sacramento Kings at the GW Forum.

MARCH 22 –

Elden Campbell scores a career-high 32 points in a reserve role — the most for a Los Angeles substitute in 1994-95 — as the Lakers defeat the Portland Trailblazers, 121-114, at the GW Forum. Los Angeles' reserve unit contributes a season-high 66 points overall, the most for the Lakers in five years (71 vs. Miami on January 7, 1990). Cedric Ceballos, who had missed the previous 22 games (Lakers 13-9) is activated earlier in the day and contributes 11 points off the bench. Randolph Keys (strained abdominal muscle) is placed on the injured list.

MARCH 24 –

Vlade Divac becomes the lone NBA player to record three 20/20 performances during the 1994-95 campaign, registering 25 points and 20 rebounds in Los Angeles' 113-103 victory over the Washington Bullets at the GW Forum. Anthony Peeler equals his career-high and a team season-high with six steals.

MARCH 26 –

The Lakers, who record 30-plus assists for the fifth time in the last six games (30), defeat the World Champion Houston Rockets, 107-96, for the third consecutive time this season. Vlade Divac tallies a game-high 27 points and collects 11 rebounds for the Lakers, one of a career-high 42 double-doubles on the season.

MARCH 26 –

Eddie Jones, who had missed the previous 18 games (Lakers 10-8) after suffering a sprained right shoulder on February 19, is activated. Tony Smith, suffering from a strained left calf, becomes the seventh Los Angeles player to spend a stint on the injured list.

MARCH 27 –

Vlade Divac becomes the second Los Angeles player to earn NBA Player of the Week honors in 1994-95 (joining Cedric Ceballos), doing so for the period ending Sunday, March 26. Divac, who led the Lakers to a 3-0 record, averaged 24.3 points, 13.7 rebounds, 3.7 assists, 2.33 blocked shots and shot .551 from the floor (27-of-49).

MARCH 28 –

The Lakers conclude a season series sweep of the World Champion Rockets, defeating Houston at the Summit, 106-96, for the fourth consecutive time this season (4-0). Six Los Angeles players score in double figures, while Elden Campbell and Pig Miller each collect a game-high 13 rebounds.

MARCH 31 –

The Lakers score a season-high 69 points in the first half and never look back en route to a 121-107 victory over the Atlanta Hawks at the GW Forum. Los Angeles, led by Cedric Ceballos' game-high 25 points, shoots a sizzling .568 from the floor (50-of-88).

APRIL 2 –

Cedric Ceballos scores a game-high 33 points and the Lakers clinch a playoff berth with a 119-112 triumph over the Orlando Magic at the GW Forum. Los Angeles, which improves to 45-26 on the season, wins for the seventh time in the last eight games and concludes the season with an 18-10 mark against the Eastern Conference.

APRIL 4 –

The Lakers, compliments of a 104-101 victory over the Nuggets in Denver, move a season-high 20 games above .500 (46-26). Trailing 57-51 at halftime, Los Angeles outscores Denver 34-19 in the decisive third quarter.

APRIL 7 –

Cedric Ceballos tallies a game-high 36 points as the Lakers hand the Utah Jazz their worst loss of the season, 113-90, at the GW Forum. Los Angeles improves to a season-high-tying 20-games above .500 (47-27) prior to concluding the campaign with seven losses in the last eight games.

APRIL 11 –

Vlade Divac, who had converted a team season-high 22 straight free throws entering the game, misses his initial attempt from the charity stripe during Los Angeles' 100-93 setback against the Jazz in Salt Lake City. Prior to the game, the Lakers announce several roster transactions, activating forward George Lynch and guard Tony Smith, in addition to placing forward Kurt Rambis (back spasms) on the injured list and waiving forward Lloyd Daniels.

APRIL 15 –

Despite Cedric Ceballos' game-high 40 points — including a career-high seven three-pointers — the Lakers are dealt their season-high fourth consecutive defeat, losing to the Suns, 119-114, in Phoenix. Los Angeles, which owns a 13-point lead at halftime (64-51), suffers only its sixth loss this season when leading (or tied) at intermission (36-6). The Lakers establish a new single-game franchise record in three-point field goals made (15).

APRIL 16 –

The Lakers record their 48th and final victory of the regular season, notching a 125-111 win over the Dallas Mavericks at the GW Forum.

APRIL 20 –

Cedric Ceballos becomes the first player in franchise history to convert a four-point play (three-pointer plus a free throw), but the Lakers succumb to the Trailblazers in Portland, 111-97, in their final regular season road outing. Ceballos, for the second time in five days, sinks a career-high seven treys overall (7-of-12). Los Angeles concludes the campaign with a 19-22 mark away from home.

APRIL 22 –

Playing without starting center Vlade Divac (flu), the Lakers conclude the regular season with their seventh loss in eight games, falling to the Trailblazers, 109-104, at the GW Forum. The Lakers conclude the campaign having improved 15 games over last season (33 to 48 wins).

APRIL 27 –

The Lakers, who are the youngest team to qualify for the 1995 NBA playoffs (26.0 average age), establish an all-time Los Angeles record low in points (regular season and playoffs) during a 96-71 loss to the Supersonics in Tacoma in Game #1 of their best-of-five first round series. Nick Van Exel tallies a game-high 29 points in his first-ever post season outing.

APRIL 29 –

Forward Cedric Ceballos equals a single-game franchise playoff record with six three-pointers (6-of-9), propelling the Lakers to a dramatic 84-82 victory over the Seattle Supersonics in Game #2 at the Tacoma Dome. A swarming Los Angeles defense forces Seattle into all-time club playoff record lows in both shooting percentage (.318) and points in a quarter (11 in fourth). The game is delayed 22 minutes in the fourth period due to a power outage.

MAY 1 –

Energized by a enthusiastic GW Forum sellout, the Lakers sprint to a 34-22 first quarter lead en route to a 105-101 victory over the Supersonics, thus securing a 2-1 advantage in their best-of-five series. Cedric Ceballos scores a team-leading 24 points for the Lakers, who convert 31-of-37 free throws and overcome a 30-point performance by Seattle's Shawn Kemp.

MAY 3 –

Del Harris, who guided the Lakers to a 48-34 regular season record and the second largest improvement in the NBA from the previous season, is named the NBA's 1994-95 Coach of the Year. Harris becomes the third coach in club history to capture Coach of the Year honors, joining Bill Sharman (1972) and Pat Riley (1990).

MAY 4 –

Nick Van Exel tallies a playoff career-high 34 points — including 20 in the first half — as the Lakers eliminate the Seattle Supersonics, 3-1, with a thrilling 114-110 come-from-behind victory at the GW Forum. Los Angeles, which trails by as many as 12 points in second quarter (38-26), begins the final stanza with an 11-3 spurt and outscores the Supersonics, 32-20, overall in the period. Van Exel establishes a single-game playoff club record in three-point field goals made (7), and sets a new NBA playoff record in three-point field goals attempted (13).

MAY 6 –

Less than 36 hours after eliminating the Seattle Supersonics in the first round of the 1995 NBA playoffs, the weary Lakers travel to San Antonio and suffer a 110-94 loss in Game #1 of the Western Conference Semifinals. The Spurs, led by David Robinson's 33 points, shoot a sizzling .539 from the floor and overcome a seven point first quarter deficit. Elden Campbell nets a playoff career-high 29 points for the Lakers.

MAY 8 –

Dennis Rodman scores 22 points and collects a playoff club record 22 rebounds, leading the Spurs to a 97-90 overtime triumph over the Lakers and a 2-0 advantage in their best-of-seven series. Center Vlade Divac misses two potential game-winning free throws with 4.6 seconds remaining for the Lakers (score tied 83-83), who lead 79-74 with 3:28 remaining in the fourth quarter. Elden Campbell scores a team-leading 25 points and collects a career-high (playoff and regular season) 18 rebounds for Los Angeles.

MAY 12 –

Suffering from a severe bout with laryngitis, play-by-play announcer Chick Hearn is unable to broadcast the second half of the Lakers/Spurs playoff game at the GW Forum (Game #3 of the Western Conference Semifinals). However, Hearn's consecutive game streak remains alive as he participates in his 2,781st straight broadcast during the first half of Los Angeles' 92-85 triumph over San Antonio. Stu Lantz (play-by-play) and Earvin Johnson (color) describe the action following intermission.

MAY 14 –

For the second time in eight playoff outings, the Lakers register a Los Angeles franchise record low in points and fall to the Spurs, 80-71, in the second lowest scoring game in NBA playoff history (151 total points). Los Angeles shoots only .360 from the floor and also establishes an all-time club playoff record low with only 27 field goals (27-of-75). Syracuse (71) and Ft. Wayne (74) established the NBA record for fewest points in a playoff game on April 7, 1955 (145).

MAY 16 –

Nick Van Exel drills a game-winning three-pointer with 0.5 seconds remaining in overtime, helping the Lakers stave off elimination with a 98-96 victory over the Spurs in Game #5 in San Antonio. Van Exel, who finishes with 22 points and seven assists, forces the extra session with a three-pointer with 10.2 second left in regulation. The victory is Los Angeles' initial win in the Alamodome (previously 0-6).

MAY 16 –

Executive Vice President of Basketball Operations Jerry West is named the NBA's 1994-95 Executive of the Year by The Sporting News. West, whose masterful moves enabled the Lakers to post the ninth-best record in the NBA and advance to the Western Conference Semifinals, captures the award for the first time during his 13-year front office tenure, during which period the Lakers have recorded the league's highest overall winning percentage.

MAY 18 –

The Lakers' storybook season comes to a conclusion in Game #6 of the Western Conference Semifinals, a 100-88 loss to the San Antonio Spurs at the GW Forum. The Spurs, who capture the series 4-2, receive 31 points and 15 rebounds from center David Robinson. The Lakers conclude the year with a 53-39 record overall (including playoffs) and play a total of 100 games, including the preseason. Earlier in the day, Eddie Jones is named as a member of the NBA's All-Rookie First Team.

JUNE 24 –

Forward Antonio Harvey is selected by the Vancouver Grizzlies in the 1995 NBA Expansion Draft (sixth pick overall).

JUNE 27 –

The Lakers acquire a second round pick in the 1995 NBA Draft (37th overall) from the Washington Bullets in exchange for two 1997 second round selections.

JUNE 28 –

One day after acquiring a second round pick from the Washington Bullets, the Lakers select Western Carolina guard Frankie King with the 37th overall choice in the 1995 NBA Draft. King, who was the NCAA's second-leading scorer last season (26.5), earned Southern Conference Player of the Year honors each of the last two seasons.

THREE-POINT BARRAGE

For the second consecutive season, Nick Van Exel established a new Lakers single-season club record for three-point field goals made in 1994-95 (183), ranking seventh overall in the NBA in that category. The two-year NBA veteran also established a new single-game club record for treys December 13 @ Dallas (8) and already ranks third on Los Angeles' all-time three-point field goal list (306). The following is a list of NBA three-point field goal leaders last season:

John Starks	217
Mookie Blaylock	199
Dan Majerle	199
Dana Barros	197
Reggie Miller	195
Glen Rice	185
NICK VAN EXEL	183

TERRIFIC TURNAROUND: The Lakers concluded the 1994-95 regular season with a 48-34 record (29-12 home, 19-22 road), the fifth-best mark in the Western Conference and the ninth-best overall record in the NBA...Los Angeles, which won only 33 games during the 1993-94 campaign (33-49) and failed to qualify for the playoffs for the first time in 18 years, posted the NBA's second most improved record last season, notching 15 more wins in comparison to the previous year (33 to 48)...the Dallas Mavericks were the NBA's most improved team overall last season (+23)...this marked Los Angeles' fourth largest improvement from one season to the next...the Lakers recorded their largest single-season incline between the 1970-71 and 1971-72 seasons, jumping from 48 to 69 victories (+21)...the club improved 18 games between the1960-61 and 1961-62 campaigns (36 to 54) and 16 games between the 1966-67 and 1967-68 seasons (36 to 52)...the Lakers surpassed their victory total from the 1993-94 season in only their 51st game last season (February 24 vs. Charlotte)...the following is a list of the NBA's most improved teams during the 1994-95 campaign:

TEAM	93-94 REC	94-95 REC	IMPROVEMENT
Dallas	13-69	36-46	+23
LAKERS	33-49	48-34	+15
Milwaukee	20-62	34-48	+14
Sacramento	28-54	39-43	+11

YOUNGEST TEAM TO QUALIFY FOR PLAYOFFS: The Lakers, who qualified for the playoffs for the 18th time in the last 19 years last season, were the youngest team in the 1995 NBA playoffs (playoff roster average age was 26.0 years)...Los Angeles defeated Seattle, 3-1, in the First Round, posting three consecutive wins over the Supersonics after losing Game #1 (Seattle had lost as many as three straight games only once during the regular season)...Nick Van Exel, who became the first player in Los Angeles franchise history to play all 48 minutes in a postseason game without a turnover in Game #3, averaged team-leading figures in scoring (24.8), assists (5.0) and steals (2.25) against Seattle...after defeating the Supersonics, the Lakers advanced to the Western Conference Semifinals for the first time since the 1991 campaign...Los Angeles extended the San Antonio Spurs, who recorded the best regular season record in the NBA (62-20), to six games before succumbing in a series (4-2) that featured two overtime contests...Elden Campbell paced the Lakers against the Spurs, averaging a team-leading 18.7 points, 8.5 rebounds and 3.33 blocked shots.

HARRIS NAMED NBA COACH OF THE YEAR: Lakers' head coach Del Harris, who guided Los Angeles to a 48-34 regular season record and the ninth-best overall mark in the league in his first year with the team, was named the NBA's 1994-95 Coach of the Year on May 3...Harris helped the Lakers record the second largest improvement in the NBA during the 1994-95 campaign, jumping from 33 wins during the 1993-94 season (33-49) to 48 victories (48-34) last season (+15)...Harris, who was named head coach of the Lakers on May 13, 1994, became the third coach in Los Angeles franchise history to capture Coach of the Year honors, joining Bill Sharman (1972) and Pat Riley (1990)...Harris also became the twelfth coach in league history to win NBA Coach of the Year honors in his first season with a new club.

WEST NAMED NBA EXECUTIVE OF THE YEAR: The Sporting News named Lakers' Executive Vice President of Basketball Operations Jerry West as the 1994-95 NBA Executive of the Year on May 16...this marked the first such honor for West, who has helped the Lakers achieve the NBA's highest winning percentage (regular season) during his 13-year tenure in the club's front office.

JONES ALL-ROOKIE SELECTION: Eddie Jones, who earned Most Valuable Player honors of the Schick Rookie Game during All-Star Weekend in Phoenix (game-high 25 points, six steals), concluded the 1994-95 regular season ranked among the top five lottery picks in four different statistical categories and earned All-Rookie First Team honors (first Los Angeles rookie to do so since Vlade Divac in 1989-90)...Jones ended the campaign with the NBA's best steal-to-turnover ratio (1.75-to-1.00) and ranked sixth overall in the NBA in steals (2.05).

AT HOME (29-12): The Lakers concluded the regular season by winning eight of their final 11 contests and 16 of their last 22 outings at the GW Forum overall...Los Angeles finished the season with the seventh best home mark in the NBA (29-12), highlighted by a season-high seven-game winning streak March 19-April 4...the Lakers did not lose more than two consecutive games at home the entire season and their 29 home wins represented the most for the club since the 1990-91 campaign (33).

ON THE ROAD (19-22): The Lakers concluded the 1994-95 regular season with a 19-22 record on the road, seven games better than the previous season (12-29)...only seven NBA teams — San Antonio (29), Utah (27), Phoenix (27), New York (26), Seattle (25), Houston (22) and Charlotte (21) — recorded more than 19 victories away from home...Los Angeles, which snapped Phoenix's franchise record 25-game homecourt winning streak December 30 (127-112) and Charlotte's franchise record 13-game homecourt winning streak on January 23 (108-102), won 10 of its first 16 road outings in 1994-95 and equalled its previous season's win total on the road in only its 21st game.

LAKERS SWEEP NBA CHAMPION ROCKETS: The Lakers were one of only two Western Conference teams (joining Seattle) to sweep the eventual 1995 NBA Champion Houston Rockets during the regular season (4-0)...overall, Los Angeles posted a combined 5-1 record against the two teams that clashed in the 1995 NBA Finals (4-0 vs. Houston, 1-1 vs. Orlando).

COMEBACK KIDS: The Lakers rallied from a deficit of 13 or more points to post a victory on nine different occasions last season...Los Angeles, which won a total of 11 games after trailing by 10 or more points, erased 13-plus point deficits against Seattle (17 down), Indiana (17), New Jersey (16), the Clippers (15 & 14), Sacramento (15), Chicago (14), Detroit (13) and Portland (13).

WINNING WAYS: The Lakers were a season-high 20 games above .500 on two different occasions last season, the latest following a win over the Utah Jazz on April 7 (47-27)...prior to this, Los Angeles had not been as many as 20 games above the break-even point since the conclusion of the 1990-91 campaign (58-24, 34 games)...the Lakers' 48-34 record last season also marked the best for the team since the 1990-91 season (58-24) and marked the 29th time in 35 years since moving to Los Angeles that the team has recorded a winning record...the Lakers recorded a winning record in every month in 1994-95 with the exception of April (4-8).

DEFENSIVELY SPEAKING: The Lakers ranked 21st overall in the NBA in points allowed last season (105.3) and 17th in opponents field goal percentage (.468)...Los Angeles won 23 of 27 games when holding foes under 100 points (23-4), but lost 30 of 55 contests when allowing foes to eclipse the 100-point barrier (25-30)...Los Angeles opponents eclipsed .500 shooting from the floor on 27 occasions, 17 of which the Lakers lost (10-17).

ON THE BOARDS: The Lakers were outrebounded in 51 of 82 games last season, losing the battle of the boards by an average of 3.8 per game (45.8 to 42.0)...Los Angeles ranked last in the NBA in highest rebound average for an opponent (45.8)...the Lakers won 24 of 31 outings when outrebounding their opponents (24-7), but lost 27 of the 51 contests when being outrebounded (24-27).

DIVAC JOINS EXCLUSIVE CLUB: Center Vlade Divac was one of only four NBA players last season to record at least 100 points, 100 rebounds, 100 assists, 100 steals and 100 blocked shots, joining Hakeem Olajuwon, David Robinson and Shawn Kemp...this marked the second time Divac has joined the exclusive "100 Club", which he was also a member of during the 1992-93 campaign...Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is the only other player in franchise history to join the "100 Club," which the recently inducted Hall of Famer did on three occasions (1975-76, 1976-77, 1977-78)...Divac, who led all NBA centers in assists last season (career-high 4.1), ranked among the NBA's top 40 in blocked shots (7th), rebounding (11th), scoring (40th), assists (35th), steals (33rd) and field goal percentage (29th).

OFFENSIVE OUTPUT: The Lakers ranked seventh overall in the NBA in scoring last season (105.1), averaging nearly five additional points in comparison to the 1993-94 campaign (100.4)...the Lakers were 39-16 when topping the century mark...Los Angeles was an unblemished 13-0 when scoring 120-plus points and recorded an 18-3 record when shooting .500-plus from the floor...the Lakers ranked 16th overall in field goal percentage (.463) and had two players — Ceballos (.509) and Divac (.507) — shoot over .500 from the floor...the Lakers had six players — Ceballos (21.7), Van Exel (16.9), Divac (16.0), Jones (14.0), Campbell (12.5) and Peeler (10.4) — average in double figures.

HONOR ROLL: Forward Cedric Ceballos, who became the first Los Angeles player since James Worthy in 1990-91 to average 20.0-plus points per game (21.7), was named as a reserve member of the Western Conference All-Star team last season...however, Ceballos, who was acquired by the Lakers from the Phoenix Suns in exchange for a future first round draft choice last September, was unable to participate due to injury (torn thumb ligament)...Ceballos earned NBA Player of the Week honors for the period ending Sunday, December 25th and became the first Los Angeles player since Magic Johnson in April of 1990 to receive NBA Player of the Month honors in December...center Vlade Divac became the second Los Angeles player to receive Player of the Week honors in March, earning the honor for the period ending Sunday, March 26.

THREE-POINT RECORDS: The Lakers established new single-season club records in both three-point field goals made (525) and attempted (1,492) last season...Los Angeles ranked seventh overall in the NBA in three-pointers made (525), fifth in three-pointers attempted (1,492) and 19th in overall percentage (.352)...the Lakers established a new single-game club in three-pointers April 15 @ Phoenix (15), two short of the NBA record (previous club record, 14, was set on January 28 @ Seattle)...guard Nick Van Exel, who established individual single-season club records in three-point field goals made (123) and attempted (364) during his rookie campaign in 1993-94, eclipsed those figures in 1994-95, converting 183-of-511 (.358)...Van Exel, who also established a single-game club record with eight three-pointers 12/13 @ Dallas (8-of-16), ranked fifth overall in the NBA in total three-pointers last season (183).

DIVAC LEADS NBA IN 20/20's: Center Vlade Divac was the only NBA player last season to register three 20/20 outings (20 points/20 rebounds)...Charles Barkley and Kevin Willis were the only other NBA players with more than one (two each)...Divac registered back-to-back 20/20 outings in late February (2/24 & 2/25), becoming the first Los Angeles player since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in December of 1975 to accomplish that feat.

WINNING THE CLOSE ONES: The Lakers won 12 games last season by three points or less (12-3), the second highest figure in the NBA (San Antonio won 15)...Los Angeles' winning percentage (.800) in games decided by three or fewer points tied with Phoenix for the best in the league (the Suns were 8-2)...the Lakers, who won five of seven overtime games (5-2), equalled a Los Angeles franchise record for most overtime contests in a single season (also 1961-62 and 1968-69).

STEALING THE SHOW: The Lakers, who equalled an NBA record with 11 steals in one quarter December 13 @ Dallas, ranked fifth overall in the league in that category (9.15) last season, trailing only Seattle (11.18), Chicago (9.72), the Clippers (9.60) and Utah (9.24)...rookie Eddie Jones, who averaged 2.56 steals in 16 games after returning from the injured list on March 26, averaged a team-leading 2.05 steals overall, ranking sixth in the NBA and first among all rookies...Jones had at least one steal in 22 straight games to end the season.

OVERCOMING THE OBSTACLES: The Lakers played the final 56 games of the regular season without having their original opening night roster healthy for a single game (December 30 @ Phoenix last time)...nonetheless, Los Angeles nearly posted a winning record without the services of each player last season and went 31-25 overall in the last 56 outings after the injury crunch started (were 17-9 following 12/30 win @ Phoenix)...the following indicates Los Angeles' record in the games missed by each player: Cedric Ceballos (15-9), Eddie Jones (10-8), George Lynch (13-10), Tony Smith (11-3), Sedale Threatt (12-11), Sam Bowie (6-7), Elden Campbell (3-4) and Nick Van Exel (2-0).

BLOCK PARTY: The Lakers, who recorded a season-high 15 blocked shots during a victory over the Clippers 1/16, averaged 6.87 blocked shots per game overall, ranking third in the NBA, behind Denver (7.13) and Philadelphia (7.02)...Los Angeles' 15 rejections against the Clippers marked the most in a single game for the club in over two years (15 - January 6, 1993 @ Minnesota) and was one shy of New Jersey and Indiana's NBA season-high (16)...Vlade Divac (2.18), Elden Campbell (1.81) and Sam Bowie (1.19) each averaged at least one blocked shot per game...the Lakers were the only team in the league to have two players ranked among the NBA's top 11 in blocked shots (Divac 7th and Campbell 11th).

DID YOU KNOW?

During Magic Johnson's illustrious 12-year NBA career with the Lakers, the club never suffered through a losing month. Prior to posting a 6-8 record in December of 1991, the Lakers had accumulated a winning record for 61 consecutive (full) months, beginning in November of 1979, Magic's rookie season.

SEEING 20/20

Vlade Divac was the only NBA player last season to record as many as three 20/20 performances (20 points/20 rebounds), outdistancing Charles Barkley (2) and Kevin Willis (2). The six-year NBA veteran also became the first Los Angeles player since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in December of 1975 to register back-to-back 20/20 outings, accomplishing this feat February 24 vs. Charlotte and February 25 against the Clippers. Entering the 1995-96 campaign, Divac has amassed a total of five 20/20 games during his career.

DATE	OPPONENT	STATISTICS

JONES NAMED ROOKIE ALL-STAR MVP

Last season, Eddie Jones became the first Los Angeles player to earn NBA All-Rookie First Team honors since Vlade Divac in 1989-90. Jones, who was named Most Valuable Player of the Schick Rookie Game during All-Star Weekend in Phoenix (25 points, six steals), averaged 14.0 points, 3.9 rebounds and led all first-year players in steals (2.05). The former Temple All-American was the 10th player selected overall in the 1994 NBA Draft, making him the lowest pick on the All-Rookie First Team.

Three-point bombs and monster dunks aren't enough to make it on the Los Angeles Lakers. The Lakers didn't get this far without the power of teamwork. As a proud sponsor, the Toyota team applauds this winning spirit and joins the lineup with the quality and style of Camry and our flagship, Avalon. Just like their fans, Toyota is proud to wear the colors of the Los Angeles Lakers. Toyota. Official vehicle of the Los Angeles Lakers.

THE 50-CLUB

Cedric Ceballos became the first Los Angeles player since Gail Goodrich on March 28, 1975 to score 50 points in a regular season game last season, reaching the half century mark during the Lakers' 108-95 victory over the Minnesota Timberwolves on December 20. The following is a list of the seven players in franchise history to reach the 50-point plateau in a regular season game:

PLAYER	50-POINT GAMES
Elgin Baylor	18
Jerry West	5
George Mikan	4
Wilt Chamberlain	2
Rudy LaRusso	1

Dr. Arthur Bartner, USC Band Director

THE LAKERS BAND

The Los Angeles Lakers Band is comprised of members of the University of Southern California Marching Band. They have been performing at Lakers games since the 1979-80 season.

The USC Band has been under the direction of Dr. Art Bartner since 1969. Under his leadership, the Trojan Marching Band has became one of the country's most visible and active collegiate band programs. To assist the dedicated student band members, the Arthur C. Bartner Endowment was established initially through a significant contribution by Lakers owner Jerry Buss. A Jerry Buss/Los Angeles Lakers Award, in the form of a scholarship, is given annually to a deserving band member.

The 25 piece Lakers Band ensemble will continue to entertain Lakers fans this season with an array of familiar tunes.

TV & RADIO AFFILIATES

RADIO

The Lakers radio network features nine stations in three western states. The flagship station is KLAC-570, Los Angeles. KWIZ, Santa Ana, is the club's Spanish affiliate which broadcasts all home games. Each of the Lakers 1995-96 preseason, regular season and playoff games can be heard on the Lakers radio network, with Chick Hearn and Stu Lantz providing the play-by-play.

The Lakers' 1995-96 radio network (all AM):

Los Angeles	KLAC	570	El Centro	KXO	1230
Santa Ana (Spanish)	KWIZ	1480	Gallup, New Mexico	KYVA*	1230
			Las Vegas, Nevada	KENO	1460
Bakersfield	KERN	1410	San Bernardino	KMEN	1290
Banning	KMET	1490	Santa Maria	KSMA	1240

-Partial Schedule*

TELEVISION (AWAY)

Each of the Lakers' 41 regular season road games will be televised in Los Angeles this season on KCAL-TV (Channel 9) and the Lakers' television network, with Chick Hearn and Stu Lantz providing all of the action. Additionally, two of the club's preseason encounters will be broadcast on Channel 9, with the first contest originating from the Blaisdell Center in Honolulu, Hawaii on Saturday, October 14 (vs. Seattle) and the other from the Thomas & Mack Center in Las Vegas on Tuesday, October 17 (vs. Charlotte). Channel 9 and the Lakers television network will televise each road playoff game not aired by NBC.

The Lakers' 1995-96 television network:

Los Angeles	KCAL-9	San Diego	KTTY-TV-69/Cable-14
Bakersfield	KUZZ-45	Fresno	KAIL-53
Honolulu, Hawaii	KFVE-5

PRIME SPORTS (HOME)

Prime Sports (formerly Prime Ticket Network) is in its 11th season as the cable TV home of the Lakers and will televise 38 regular season home games in 1995-96, plus two preseason contests and selected playoff games.

One of the country's largest regional sports networks, Prime Sports serves over 4.6 million basic cable customers in Southern California, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaii. Concentrating its sports events coverage "in the shadow of our local stadiums," Prime Sports presents more live, local sports programming than any other network or broadcast station in the market.

Prime Sports also televises the Lakers only pre-game program, "The Lake Show," a half-hour before each Lakers home contest. Co-hosted by Paul Sunderland and former NBA star Reggie Theus, the show brings the viewer live to courtside and includes features and interviews with Lakers management and players.

In addition to Lakers games, Prime Sports also televises "NBA Action," a weekly half-hour program that covers the teams, players and legends of the National Basketball Association.

The network's programming menu extends beyond the Lakers to include the Los Angeles Kings, Mighty Ducks of Anaheim, California Angels, San Diego Padres, Los Angeles Blades, The AVP Pro Beach Volleyball Tour, the Bud Surf Tour, auto racing, boxing, golf and tennis, as well as football, basketball and other sports from UCLA, USC, Pepperdine, San Diego State, the Pac-10 and other conferences.

The Emmy-winning nightly sports news program, "Press Box," rounds out Prime Sports' diverse schedule and provides scores, highlights, features and interviews.

PRIME DEPORTIVA

Launched on March 1, 1995, Prime Deportiva is quickly becoming America's home for Spanish-language sports programming. Prime Deportiva, a national and international Spanish-language sports cable network, has offices in Los Angeles and Houston. In addition to this year's 38-game Lakers home schedule, Prime Deportiva offers baseball involving the California Angels and San Diego Padres, boxing from the Great Western Forum, tennis, auto racing and other popular sports.

Prime Deportiva, also known as America's premiere soccer network, offers three matches a day from around the globe, including Mexico, Spain, Argentina, Brazil, Italy and Germany.

LAKERS COMMUNITY RELATIONS

Every season the Lakers extend their hard work and determination to the communities that support their efforts on the court. Last season was no exception.

- Rookie Eddie Jones joined the team and made an immediate impact in the community by establishing the Eddie Jones Foundation. Through his foundation, Jones donated Christmas trees to families and sponsored 25 kids to attend every home game.
- The Lakers hosted their annual Halloween Night at the GW Forum. Thousands of kids roamed through the GW Forum lobby in their costumes, meeting and collecting lots of candy from their favorite Laker player.

Cedric Ceballos provides a little holiday cheer for those less fortunate

- The holiday season proved prosperous for several organizations. The Lakers collected toys from their fans which were donated and distributed by the Magic Johnson Toy Drive, and the Feliz Navidad Project. Forward Cedric Ceballos visited three housing projects and donated over 100 turkeys to needy families.
- Not only did several players visit students at junior high schools, but over 7,000 students attended Lakers games during the month of February — designated Lakers "Stay In School Month." Students that had 30 days of perfect attendance, improved classwork and exemplary behavior qualified for free Lakers tickets.
- The YMCA/Jr. Lakers League expanded and serviced over 10,000 players from ages 6-17. For the first time, the league finals were held at the GW Forum. Honorary Commissioner Cedric Ceballos attended the league picnic, which was a thrill for the kids.
- The Lakers reached out to the Hispanic community. The Laker Girls, players and head coach Del Harris spent an afternoon at Roosevelt High School. They conducted a free basketball clinic and signed hundreds of autographs for the kids in the community.

NBA COMMUNITY RELATIONS

The NBA, its teams and players share a commitment to supporting programs dedicated to improving the quality of life for all people.

For years, the NBA has created and implemented programs league-wide to address important social issues, with special emphasis on helping young people. This year's youth-based education programs will include: the NBA Stay in School program, created to encourage students to graduate from high school through school visits by NBA players and coaches; and conflict resolution workshops designed to train teachers and educate students in methods to resolve conflict without resorting to violence. Public service announcements and educational materials will also focus on anti-violence/conflict resolution message.

The NBA continues its support of CARE, the National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse and Special Olympics through television and radio public service announcements and other awareness-building efforts. The NBA also creates PSAs in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and Black History Month each year.

In addition, the NBA's 29 teams are making a difference, across the United States and Canada, through active involvement in a multitude of outreach efforts pertinent to the needs of their respective communities.

THE GREAT WESTERN FORUM
HOME OF THE LAKERS

It was known as the Forum from its ground breaking in 1966 until December of 1988 when, as the result of a major advertising agreement, the home of the Los Angeles Lakers was renamed The Great Western Forum.

The venue has proven to be a gracious host for the Lakers, who have won over 75 percent of their regular season and playoff games in the Great Western Forum since defeating the San Diego Rockets on December 31, 1967.

The Lakers celebrated their 20th anniversary in their Inglewood home in 1988 by winning the NBA title on the Forum floor for the second consecutive year and the fourth time in club history (1972, 1982, 1987, 1988).

NBA Championships aren't the only historic sporting events to be staged in the facility built by Jack Kent Cooke. On September 10, 1973, the largest live boxing gate ever on the West Coast, $475,640, was recorded when Muhammad Ali defeated Ken Norton. The first Forum concert paired Tony Bennett and Duke Ellington in 1968, and hundreds of major acts have followed. In 1989, Neil Diamond played to a record-breaking 10 sold-out performances in the Great Western Forum, and has now performed a total of 22 times in the venue.

Another historical event came to The Forum in 1984 when it served as the venue for men's and women's basketball competition in the games of the XXIII Olympiad. In 1982 and again in 1989, the Los Angeles Kings skated to Miracles on Manchester I and II.

Jerry Buss purchased The Forum from Cooke in 1979 along with the Lakers and Kings for $67.5 million in what was then the largest sports transaction in history.

Annually two and one-half million spectators attend over 200 events. Since the Forum opened its doors, more than 58 million fans have been attracted to numerous events.

— CENTINELA HOSPITAL MEDICAL CENTER — THE OFFICIAL HOSPITAL OF THE LOS ANGELES LAKERS

When the Lakers sought to protect the health and enhance the fitness of their players, the obvious choice for club officials was to call the Kerlan-Jobe Orthopaedic Clinic and Centinela Hospital Medical Center.

The medical team for the Lakers is headed by orthopedists Dr. Robert Kerlan and Dr. Stephen J. Lombardo of the Kerlan-Jobe Orthopaedic Clinic, as well as a specialist in internal medicine, Dr. Michael Mellman. These physicians attend all Lakers games and check each player at halftime and after games. They also consult with the players regarding their physical problems and their personal fitness programs between games and during the off-season. The Kerlan-Jobe Orthopaedic Clinic is a world leader in the diagnosis and treatment of orthopaedic and sports medicine injuries and illness, treating patients from around the globe.

Numerous professional athletic organizations have chosen Centinela Hospital as their choice for top-notch healthcare, including the Lakers, Dodgers and Kings, the PGA TOUR and Senior PGA Tour. In addition, Centinela Hospital was chosen as an "Official Hospital of the 1984 Olympic Games."

Centinela Hospital's dedication to the advancement of sports medicine led to the development of Centinela Hospital's Fitness Institute in Culver City and Biomechanics Laboratory in Inglewood — both instrumental in sports medicine research that will ultimately prolong the careers of athletes through fitness training and injury prevention.

Centinela Hospital's Fitness Institute has developed a sophisticated battery of tests to evaluate the health and fitness of professional athletes, business executives, policemen and firemen, in addition to tests for non-athletic clients.

CEDRIC'S SELECT COMPANY

Cedric Ceballos became only the fifth player in Los Angeles franchise history last season to average at least 20.0 points (21.7) and 8.0 rebounds (8.0), joining Elgin Baylor, Wilt Chamberlain, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Magic Johnson. Ceballos, a member of the 1995 NBA All-Star team, would have ranked 12th overall in the NBA in scoring and 24th overall in rebounding, but did not qualify after missing 22 games in February/March due to a torn ligament in his right thumb.

LOS ANGELES LAKERS ®

First and 4X4 MOST.

Tacoma's available 3.4-liter V6 generates 190 hp and 220 lb.-ft. of torque.

TACOMA 4x4. To come in FIRST. That's the GOAL of every competitor.

So let's start with POWER. Tacoma's available 190-hp V6 OUTPERFORMS even the biggest optional engines found in the Ford Ranger and Chevy S-10.* Plus, TACOMA provides shorter, faster BRAKING* and outstanding maneuverability.

New, fully independent coil-spring double-wishbone front suspension with gas-filled shock absorbers provides more front wheel travel than Ford or Chevy.††

And only TACOMA combines CLASS-LEADING ground clearance with a STATE-OF-THE-ART suspension system. There's also the added confidence of a driver-side AIR BAG and available 4-wheel ABS.

TACOMA. From TOYOTA, naturally. The #1 name in Compact 4x4s, 15 years running.† It's the ARRIVAL of the FITTEST.

TOYOTA TACOMA

Toyota reminds you to Tread Lightly!™ on public and private land. *USAC-certified 0-to-60 acceleration and 60-to-0 braking tests. Tacoma 4x4 3.4L Xtracab automatic vs. similarly equipped Ford Ranger and Chevy S-10 with optional V6s. To help avoid serious injury, always wear your seatbelt. Driver-side air bag is a supplemental restraint only. †The Polk Company registrations, 1980-1994. ††Except on 4-cylinder models without alloy wheels.
